Speaking Of Madness:

Speaking of Madness Amy Louise Hynes-Sutherland, 2015 Discourse on madness is ubiquitous in world cultures The behaviors beliefs and experiences that come to be labeled as madness vary according to context and the language used to identify and describe these behaviors beliefs and experiences also varies significantly Though there is great diversity of interpretation it is nevertheless the case that madness however contextually defined is a universal human category within discourses on behavior and experience Employing the method of discourse comparison this dissertation works toward developing a model of the discourse on madness in India by developing a meta linguistic vocabulary for describing positions within the discourse Two collections of sources are compared selections from classical Sanskrit literature and a body of interviews pamphlets and conference recordings from 2012 2013 India The analytical focus is on how attributions of madness are made through which words and levels of discourse and due to what kinds of affiliations or motivations political social religious or otherwise Each of the six chapters with the exception of Chapter 1 on constructions of health and normalcy addresses a different sphere of concern that arises when people are confronted with behavior they interpret as madness defining madness Chapter 2 creating madness Chapter 3 legislating madness Chapter 4 curing madness Chapter 5 and aspiring to madness Chapter 6 In analyzing the materials in these chapters from a comparative perspective I identify sub discourses increasingly specific discourses on madness within the spheres of concern and also spectrums of interpretation spectrums of positions found within the discourse on madness In organizing the discourse into these categories we can compare positions on madness at various levels of specificity within and across cultures Ultimately the goal is to better understand and more systematically compare how people from different times and places have imagined described and managed madness operationally defined here as pathologized deviant behavior in both similar and unique ways

A Poetics of Trauma Ilana Szobel, 2013 Astute analysis of the work of a great Israeli poet through the lens of psychoanalysis gender nationalism and trauma theory

Why War? Jacqueline Rose, 1993-12-08 Over the past decade psychoanalysis has been a focus of continuing controversy for feminism and at the centre of debates in the humanities about how we read literature and culture In these essays Jacqueline Rose continues her engagement with these issues while arguing for a shift of attention from an emphasis on sexuality as writing to the place of the unconscious in the furthest reaches of or cultural and political lives With essays on war capital punishment and the dispute over seduction in relation to Freud she opens up the field of psychopolitics Finally in two extended essays on Melanie Klein and her critics she suggests that it is time for a radical rereading of Klein's work

Returns of the French Freud: Todd Dufresne, 2013-12-19 Creating a snapshot of current thinking about psychoanalysis this lively collection examines the legacy of Freud and Lacan Through provocative and penetrating arguments the contributors take psychoanalysis to task for its dark view of human nature theoretical sorcery devaluation of femininity self referentiality discipleship negativity ignorance of history and more The essays also examine the complex relationships between Freudian and Lacanian theory and philosophy feminism anthropology communications theory deconstruction Foucauldian genealogy and medical history The outstanding list of contributors includes Paul Roazen Francois Roustang John Forrester Rodolphe Gasche Mikkel Borch Jacobsen and Jacques Derrida

Postmodern Theory and Progressive Politics Thomas de Zengotita, 2018-08-23 This book explores the origins of the academic culture wars of the late 20th century and examines their lasting influence on the humanities and progressive politics It puts us in a position to ask this question what to make now of those furious debates over postmodernism multiculturalism relativism critical theory deconstruction post structuralism and all the rest In an effort to arrive at a fair judgment on that question the book reaches for an understanding of postmodern theorists by way of two genres they despised and hopes for that very reason to do them justice It tells a story and in the telling advances two basic claims first that the phenomenological hermeneutical tradition is the most suitable source of theory for a humanism that aspires to be universal and second that the ethical and political aspect of the human condition is authentically accessible only through narrative In conclusion it argues that the postmodern moment was a necessary one or will have been if we rise to the occasion and seize the opportunity it offers a truly universal humanism might yet be realized even in or perhaps especially in this atavistic hour of parochial populism The Expository Times James Hastings, Ann Wilson Hastings, Edward Hastings, 1907

Lacanian Psychoanalytic Writings Megan Williams, 2026-05-06 Lacanian Psychoanalytic Writings The Littoral Word presents cutting edge Lacanian psychoanalytic thought by leaders in the field Each chapter is written by authors who in one way or another take up Jacques Lacan's observation that each psychoanalysis invents psychoanalysis anew They bring to the field not an orthodoxy but a rigorous singularity which continues to be pertinent to what Freud described as the malaise of civilisation Megan Williams brings together important work by Jean Allouch Christian Fierens and members of the Freudian School of Melbourne exploring themes of madness hysteria sexuality and language through a Lacanian lens This essential collection will appeal to psychoanalysts psychotherapists and psychiatrists It will also be of interest to academics and scholars of philosophy cultural studies literature and linguistics who engage with psychoanalytic theory The Expository Times, 1899 Tracing Paradigms: One Hundred Years of Neophilologus Rolf H. Bremmer Jr, Thijs Porck, Frans Ruiters, Usha Wilbers, 2016-09-27

This volume brings together a selection of pivotal articles published in the hundred years since the launch of the journal Neophilologus Each article is accompanied by an up to date commentary written by former and current editors of the journal The commentaries position the articles within the history of the journal in particular and within the field of Modern Language Studies in general As such this book not only outlines the history of a scholarly journal but also the history of an entire field Over the course of its first one hundred years 1916 to 2016

Neophilologus An International Journal of Modern and Mediaeval Language and Literature has developed from a modest quarterly set up by a group of young and ambitious Dutch professors as a platform for their own publications to one of the leading international journals in Modern Language Studies Although Neophilologus has remained broad in scope multilingual and multidisciplinary it has witnessed dramatic changes in its long standing history paradigm shifts the rise and fall of literary theories methods and sub disciplines as has the field of Modern Language Studies itself Shakspeare Diversions Francis Jacox,1877 Seven Deadly Sins Joseph Krauskopf,1903 Sartre and Psychology Keith Hoeller,1993 These essays focus on Sartre s influence on existential and phenomenological psychology Subjects range from Sartre s relation with Freud and Laing to a study of human behaviour using as a model Roquentin from his novel Nausea An American Commentary on the New Testament Alvah Hovey,1888 Winning Declamation and how to Speak Them ... Edwin Du Bois Shurter,1917 Why Talk About Madness? Catharine Coleborne,2020-01-13 This short book argues for the relevance of historical perspectives on mental health exploring how these histories can and should inform debates about mental healthcare today Why is it important to study the history of madness What does it mean to voice these histories What can these tell us about the challenges and legacies of mental health care across the world today Offering an intervention into new ways of thinking and talking about mad history Catharine Coleborne explores the social and cultural impact of the history of the mad movement self help and mental health consumer advocacy from the 1960s inside a longer tradition of writing madness Starting with a brief history of the relevance of first person accounts then looking at the significance of other ways of representing the psychiatric patient survivor or consumer over time this book aims to escape from dominant modes of writing about the asylum Winning Declamations and how to Speak Them ... Edwin Du Bois Shurter,1917 Over one hundred selections of notable declamations The Student's New Testament Compilation ,1926 French Forum ,1980 Going Sane Adam Phillips,2009-10-13 Being sane has long been defined simply as that bland and nebulous state of not being mentally ill While writings on madness fill entire libraries until now no one has thought to engage exclusively with the idea of sanity In a society governed by indulgence and excess madness is the state of mind we identify with most keenly Though ultimately destructive it is often credited as the wellspring of genius individuality and self expression Sanity on the other hand confounds us One of the world s most respected psychoanalysts and original thinkers Adam Phillips redresses this historical imbalance He strips our lives back to essentials focusing on how we as human beings parents lovers as people to whom work matters can make space for a sane and well balanced attitude to living In a world saturated by tales of dysfunction and suffering he offers a way forward that is as down to earth and realistic as it is uplifting and hopeful
