constructions involving specific verb forms The present study examines this facet of the Egyptian and Coptic verbal systems in isolation singling out three types of relationships between events and the linguistic means by which they are expressed The first essay studies the verb form called conjunctive arguing that the function of the conjunctive is to conjoin a chain of two or more events into a single though compound notion The second essay shows how a certain syntactic construction can be used to refer to events that are contiguous that is events that succeed one another rapidly in time The third essay examines verb forms that refer to events whose occurrence is contingent on the occurrence of other events implied or explicitly mentioned in the context The respective grammatical phenomena are labeled conjunction contiguity and contingency This study constitutes a significant advancement in our understanding of the ancient language of Egypt and will be of interest to scholars in the fields of Egyptology Coptology and the Ancient Near East as well as linguists Byzantinists and Classicists
