Models of Understanding Text Bruce K. Britton, Arthur C. Graesser, 2014-02-25 What is text understanding It is the dynamic process of constructing coherent representations and inferences at multiple levels of text and context within the bottleneck of a limited capacity working memory The field of text and discourse has advanced to the point where researchers have developed sophisticated models of comprehension and identified the particular assumptions that underlie comprehension mechanisms in precise analytical or mathematical detail The models offer a priori predictions about thought and behavior not merely ad hoc descriptions of data Indeed the field has evolved to a mature science The contributors to this volume collectively cover the major models of comprehension in the field of text and discourse Other books are either narrow covering only a single theoretical framework or do not focus on systematic modeling efforts In addition this book focuses on deep levels of understanding rather than language codes syntax and other shallower levels of text analysis As such it provides readers with up to date information on current psychological models specified in quantitative or analytical detail

A Theory of Textuality Jorge J. E. Gracia, 1995-07-01 This is the first comprehensive and systematic theory of textuality that takes into account the relevant views of both analytic and Continental thinkers and also of major historical figures The author shows that most of the confusion surrounding textuality is the result of three factors a too narrow understanding of the category a lack of a proper distinction among logical epistemological and metaphysical issues and a lack of proper grounding of epistemological and metaphysical questions on logic analyses The author begins with a logical analysis of the notion of text resulting in a definition that serves as the basis for the distinctions he subsequently draws between texts on the one hand and language artifacts and art objects on the other and for the classification of texts according to their modality and function The second part of the book uses the conclusions of the first part to solve the various epistemological issues which have been raised about texts by philosophers of

Digital Guide Saddleback Educational Publishing,2011-01-01 Written for young adults the Urban Underground series confronts issues that are of great importance to teens such as friendship loyalty drugs gangs abuse urban blight bullies and self esteem to name a few More than entertainment these books can be a powerful learning and coping tool when a struggling reader connects with credible characters and a compelling storyline The highly readable style and mature topics will appeal to young adult readers of both sexes and encourage them to finish each novel The Teacher s Resource Guides provide 10 pages of activities and reproducible worksheets per novel to support the books and extend students reading skills Simply select and print the activities that you need A key at the end of each guide provides answers and sample responses The activities give lower level readers the tools to construct extend and examine the meaning of text Texts and Identities in the Early Middle Ages Richard Corradini,2006 For seven years a collaboration between the Institute for Medieval Studies of the Austrian Academy of Sciences and the Universities of Utrecht Cambridge Leeds and Paris I Sorbonne provided the opportunity for young researchers to discuss and coordinate their work The title of the project and of this volume Texts and identities provides the framework for case studies in different fields of early medieval history They include apparently disparate topics such as historiography and hagiography monastic spaces and memories lay and ecclesiastic legislation as well as liturgy and penance Rather than defining a common field of research the meetings from which these papers have emerged derived their coherence from their common methodological framework This approach combines two elements on the one hand emphasis has been laid on the careful analysis of the transmission of texts and of the manuscript evidence on the other research has focused on the problem of identity or rather of processes of identification including the perception of differences between specific social political and religious communities In the combination of these two approaches the extant texts from the early medieval period are not only seen as mere reflections of ethnic social and cultural identities but also as media that gave meaning to social practices and were often intended to inspire guide change or prevent action directly or indirectly The written texts that have been transmitted to us can be seen as part of a cultural effort to shape the present by means of restructuring the past The often discordant voices of medieval authors allow modern historians to grasp something of the multiplicity of the early medieval world and of the disagreements conflicts idiosyncrasies and individual perceptions among the people who lived in that period Many contributions in this volume propose specific methods for studying changing identities They analyse differences between similar texts over time or specifically changes in texts in the course of their transmission The papers collected in this volume illustrate that texts were integral parts of a world in transformation
