Scott,2007 Examining the secretive dynamics of competing land claims among the Arosi of the island of Makira Solomon Islands Michael W Scott demonstrates the explanatory power of ethnographic attention to the nexus between practice and indigenous theories of being His focus on the ways in which Arosi understand their matrilineages to be the bearers of discrete categorical essences exclusively emplaced in ancestral territories forms the basis for a timely and accessible rethink of current anthropological representations of Melanesian sociality and opens up new lines of inquiry into the transformative relationships among gendered metaphors of descent processes of place making and the indigenization of Christianity Informed by original historical research and newly documented variants of regionally important mythic traditions

The Severed Snake is a work of multidisciplinary scope that proposes critical and methodological shifts relevant to historians combines the best aspects of classic ethnography and contemporary social theory His attention to detail registers a keen sensitivity to local concerns and their historical specificity at the same time that his conceptual sophistication places those concerns in a broad comparative perspective This book is a vindication of careful fieldwork's unparalleled ability to illuminate important contribution to Melanesian studies and will quickly enter the canon of mandatory reading for anyone working in comparative study of the societies of Melanesia This book is indeed a significant contribution to Melanesian ethnography but it is more than that It is a major contribution to the comparative understanding of Melanesia within an Austronesian speaking world James J Fox The Asia Pacific Journal of Anthropology The Australian National University The ethnography's main contribution is carefully to detail Arosi conceptions of place and identity that are broadly shared across Melanesia Scott's analysis helps clarify why uneasy problems of land and identity in Melanesia continue to simmer The Australian Journal of
