

Understanding Breast Cancer

The breast

The breast consists of numerous lobules (individual glands). Each lobule has a central milk duct that leads to the nipple. Each breast also has a network of lymph nodes and blood vessels. The lymph nodes are small, bean-shaped structures that filter out any cancer cells that may be present in the lymph fluid. The blood vessels carry oxygen and nutrients to the breast tissue.

What is breast cancer?

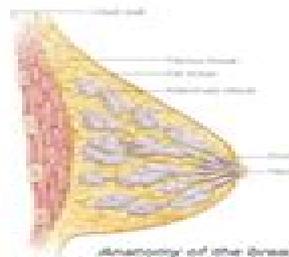

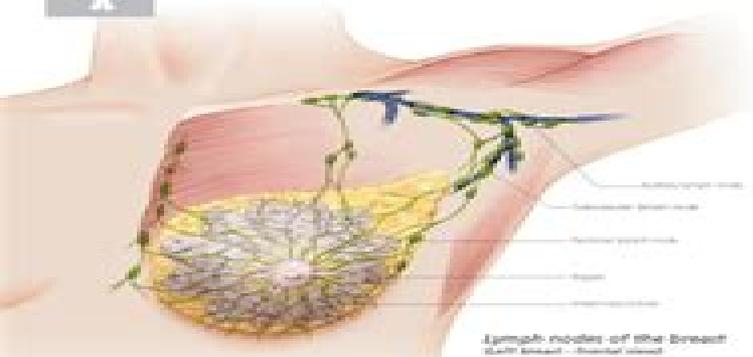

Breast cancer is a disease in which abnormal cells in the breast grow out of control. It can start in the ducts or lobules of the breast. Breast cancer can spread to other parts of the body. The most common type of breast cancer is ductal carcinoma in situ (DCIS), which is a precancerous condition. DCIS can become breast cancer if it is not treated.

Types of breast cancer

- DCIS (Ductal Carcinoma In Situ): This is a precancerous condition where abnormal cells are found in the ducts but have not yet spread to the surrounding breast tissue.
- Invasive Ductal Carcinoma (IDC): This is the most common type of breast cancer. It starts in the ducts and spreads to the surrounding breast tissue.
- Invasive Lobular Carcinoma (ILC): This type of cancer starts in the lobules and spreads to the surrounding breast tissue.
- Lobular Carcinoma In Situ (LCIS): This is a precancerous condition where abnormal cells are found in the lobules but have not yet spread to the surrounding breast tissue.

Signs and symptoms of breast cancer

- The most common symptom is a lump or mass in the breast.
- Swelling or redness of the breast.
- Changes in the size, shape, or color of the breast.
- Changes in the texture of the breast.
- Changes in the way the breast feels.
- Changes in the way the breast looks.
- Changes in the way the breast smells.
- Changes in the way the breast tastes.
- Changes in the way the breast feels.
- Changes in the way the breast looks.
- Changes in the way the breast smells.
- Changes in the way the breast tastes.

Diagnosis

Diagnosis of breast cancer involves a physical exam, mammography, ultrasound, and biopsy. A physical exam involves a doctor feeling the breasts and lymph nodes. Mammography is an X-ray of the breasts. Ultrasound is a test that uses sound waves to create a picture of the breasts. A biopsy is a test that involves taking a small sample of breast tissue to look for cancer cells.

Staging for breast cancer

- Stage 0: DCIS (Ductal Carcinoma In Situ) - The cancer is only in the ducts and has not spread to the surrounding breast tissue.
- Stage I: The cancer is small and has not spread to the lymph nodes.
- Stage II: The cancer is larger and has spread to the lymph nodes.
- Stage III: The cancer is large and has spread to the lymph nodes and other parts of the breast.
- Stage IV: The cancer has spread to other parts of the body.

Move fingers in evenly spaced order, and check breast using a circular motion.

Move fingers in a starburst pattern, one finger at a time, and check breast using a circular motion.

Move fingers in a circle, with other fingers in a spiral pattern around the breast.

What is a [BSE] Breast Self Exam?

Breast self-exams (BSE) are a way to check for breast lumps or changes. They should be done every month. The best time to do a BSE is about a week after your period starts. If you are not having a period, choose a day each month. BSE can help find breast lumps or changes early, when they are easier to treat.

Early stage breast cancer

Small lumps of tumor cells that have spread to the lymph nodes in the armpit.

Locally advanced breast cancer

Large tumors that have spread to the lymph nodes and other parts of the breast.

What is metastasis?

Metastasis is the spread of cancer from the primary site to other parts of the body. It happens when cancer cells break away from the primary site and travel through the blood or lymph system to other parts of the body. Metastasis can happen to any part of the body, but it is most common in the lungs, liver, and bones.

Breast conservation surgery

The surgical procedure to remove the tumor and some surrounding tissue while leaving the rest of the breast intact.

Breast removal

The surgical procedure to remove the entire breast, including the lymph nodes in the armpit.

Treatment options

- Surgery: The surgical removal of the tumor and some surrounding tissue.
- Chemotherapy: The use of drugs to kill cancer cells.
- Radiation therapy: The use of high-energy rays to kill cancer cells.
- Hormonal therapy: The use of drugs to block the action of hormones.
- Targeted therapy: The use of drugs to target specific cancer cells.
- Complementary and holistic medicine: These include acupuncture, meditation, and yoga.
