Understanding Global News Jaap van Ginneken, 1997-12-08 A lively and critical introduction to the news media this book has been written specifically for media students and trainee journalists Understanding Global News invites the reader to explore contemporary journalistic practice and questions the assumption that the media provide a mere window on the world Challenging the often unquestioned notions of media objectivity the author turns the classic questions Who What When and Why onto the news media By employing a range of theoretical perspectives and a large variety of examples the author demonstrates the way in which our perceptions of the world are constructed by the news media Explaining News C.

Archetti, 2010-07-05 The book challenges the idea that processes of globalization are leading to an increasing homogenization of news on a worldwide scale by focusing on two defining crises of our time 9 11 and the War in Afghanistan The empirical analysis combines process tracing as well as both quantitative and qualitative content analysis of governmental discourses and news coverage of eight elite newspapers across the US France Italy and Pakistan It develops a new multidisciplinary framework to explain news that brings together previously distinct levels of analysis the micro level of the individual decisions made by journalists the organizational environment of the news organization national social and political contexts the macro level of international relations The book is going to be of interest primarily to academics and researchers postgraduate students across communications media studies journalism politics and international relations as well as journalists media practitioners and officials involved in public communication Making News in India Somnath

The Chicago Legal News ,1917      Navigating the News Richard Craig,2020 In an age when young people may confuse online chatter with legitimate news Navigating the News is the first textbook designed to show students how to recognize credible reporting and how real journalists perform their jobs The book begins with the basics of how to critically assess news stories then covers what to look for in everything from community news and crime reporting to business political and investigative coverage More than 50 professional journalists share insights on how they gather edit and report news and discuss what critical audiences should expect from their news coverage Students learn how to analyze complex topics including science environmental and education news and a series of chapters covers how to approach news from different parts of the world Navigating the News is aimed at general audiences not just journalism or communication majors Given the importance and timeliness of the subject this book could easily be the core text for general education classes on news and media literacy The trend toward teaching young people how to understand and assess news is gaining momentum at universities everywhere The book is written in a clear straightforward style to engage students who may be getting their first taste of adult issues and concerns Even students who have avoided serious news growing up will gain tools for understanding assessing and processing coverage of complex stories The mission of this text is simple If students don't recognize what real news is Navigating the News is going to teach them      Atkinson's Evening Post, and Philadelphia Saturday News ,1929      Understanding the News Landscape ,2012 Increasingly news is a hard to define concept where individuals are defining on their own terms Is the Daily Show news Is Bill O Reilly a journalist These are just two questions that face individuals as they navigate the modern news environment This dissertation project explores how young people make sense of this new news world And more specifically how they make distinctions about news and how they evaluate news To accomplish this I develop the concept of a news vocabulary to encapsulate the various ways people think and talk about the news media The roadmap of this project is guided by four key research questions 1 How do people think and talk about the news 2 To what extent is there variance among news vocabularies 3 To what extent are news vocabularies related to social positioning and other individual differences 4 What role do news vocabularies play in news exposure decisions and in explaining news effects A mixed method approach is used in this dissertation project In depth interview data is used to uncover participants immediate reactions to various news figures and organizations and more effortful processing when they draw distinctions across the news media Survey data is used to systematically map the news environment and to explore evaluation differences Taken together the results from this dissertation project shed light on the psychological processes that underscore news exposure and effects While some people have very detailed and complex ways of understanding the modern news environment others have a simple understanding of news and how to find it As such news vocabularies provide insight into the democratic implications of the high choice news environment      The Independent ,1916      Farm Implement News ,1926      Manufacturers' News ,1929      Radio News ,1921 Some issues 1943 July 1948 include separately paged and
