Henig,Richard C. Hula,Marion Orr,Desiree S. Pedescleaux,2001-01-22 Why is it so difficult to design and implement fundamental educational reform in large city schools in spite of broad popular support for change How does the politics of race complicate the challenge of building and sustaining coalitions for improving urban schools These questions have provoked a great deal of theorizing but this is the first book to explore the issues on the basis of extensive solid evidence Here a group of political scientists examines education reform in Atlanta Baltimore Detroit and Washington D C where local governmental authority has passed from white to black leaders The authors show that black administrative control of big city school systems has not translated into broad improvements in the quality of public education within black led cities Race can be crucial however in fostering the broad civic involvement perhaps most needed for school reform In each city examined reform efforts often arise but collapse partly because leaders are unable to craft effective political coalitions that would commit community resources to a concrete policy agenda What undermines the leadership according to the authors is the complex role of race in each city First public authority does not guarantee access to private resources usually still controlled by white economic elites Second local authorities must interact with external actors at the state and national levels who remain predominantly white Finally issues of race divide the African American community itself and often place limits on what leaders can and cannot do Filled with insightful explanations together with recommendations for policy change this book is an important component of the debate now being waged among researchers education activists and the community as a whole Atlanta ,2008-01 Atlanta magazine s editorial mission is to engage our community through

The Condemnation of Little B Elaine Brown,2003-02-15 Through the story of a thirteen year old black boy condemned to life in prison Elaine Brown exposes the New Age racism that effectively condemns millions of poor African Americans to a third world life The story of Little B is riveting a stunning example of the particular burden racism imposes on black youths Most astonishing almost all of the officials involved in bringing him to justice are black Michael Lewis was officially declared a ward of the state at age eleven and then systematically ignored until his arrest for murder Brown wondered how this boy could possibly have aroused so much public resentment why he was being tried and roundly condemned labeled a super predator in the press Then she met Michael and began investigating his case on her own Brown adeptly builds a convincing case that the prosecution railroaded Michael looking for a quick symbolic conviction His innocence is almost incidental to the overwhelming evidence that the case was unfit for trial Little B was convicted long before he came to court and effectively sentenced years before when the safety net allowed him to slip silently down Brown cites studies and cases from all over America that reveal how much more likely youth of color are to be convicted of crimes and to serve long even life sentences and how deeply the new black middle class is implicated in this devastating reality Atlanta ,2004-01 Atlanta magazine s editorial mission is to engage our community through provocative writing authoritative reporting and superlative design that illuminate the people the issues the trends and the events that define our city The magazine informs challenges and entertains our readers each month while helping them make intelligent choices not only about what they do and where they go but what they think about matters of importance to the community and the region Atlanta magazine s editorial mission is to engage our community through provocative writing authoritative reporting and superlative design that illuminate the people the issues the trends and the events that define our city The magazine informs challenges and entertains our readers each month while helping them make intelligent choices not only about what they do and where they go but what they think about matters of importance to the community and the region Atlanta ,2004-01 Atlanta magazine s editorial mission is to engage our community through provocative writing authoritative reporting and superlative design that illuminate the people the issues the trends and the events that define our city The magazine informs challenges and entertains our readers each month while helping them make intelligent choices not only about what they do and where they go but what they think about
