

What was this area like before Stonehenge?

Long before the Stonehenge monument was built, the area was a busy Neolithic site. The site was used for over 2,000 years, from around 3000 BC to the Iron Age.

Over 100,000 flint tools have been found at the site, including axes, knives and arrowheads.

The site was also used for religious and ceremonial purposes. It is believed that the Stonehenge monument was built as a part of a larger ritual complex.
