The First Artists:

The First Artists Paul Bahn, Michel Lorblanchet, 2017-07-20 Where do we find the world's very first art? When and why did people begin experimenting with different materials, forms, and colours? Were our once cousins the Neanderthals also capable of creating art? Prehistorians have been asking these questions of our ancestors for decades, but only very recently, with the development of cutting-edge scientific and archaeological techniques, have we been able to piece together the first chapter in the story of art. Overturning the traditional Eurocentric vision of our artistic origins, which has focused almost exclusively on the Franco-Spanish cave art, Paul Bahn and Michel Lorblanchet take the reader on a search for the earliest art across the whole world. They show that our earliest ancestors were far from being the creatively impoverished primitives of past accounts and Europe was by no means the only cradle of art; the artistic impulse developed in the human mind wherever it travelled. The long universal history of art mirrors the development of humanity.

The First Artists: In Search of the World's Oldest Art Paul Bahn, Michel Lorblanchet, 2017-07-11 Two of the greatest living authorities on Ice Age art delve hundreds of thousands of years into the human past to discover the earliest works of art ever made, drawing on decades of new research. Where is the world's very first art located? When and why did people begin experimenting with different materials, forms, and colors? Prehistorians have long been asking these questions, but only recently have they been able to piece together the first chapter in the story of art. Overturning the traditional Eurocentric vision of our artistic origins, Paul Bahn and Michel Lorblanchet seek out the earliest art across the whole world. There are clues that even three million years ago, distant human ancestors were drawn to natural curiosities that appeared representational, such as the face-like Makapansgat cobble from South Africa, not carved but naturally weathered to resemble a human face. In the last hundred thousand years, people all over the world began to create art: the oldest known paint palettes in South Africa's Blombos Cave, the famous Venus figures across Europe, all the way to Siberia, and magnificent murals on cave walls in every continent except Antarctica. This book is the first to assess the discovery history and significance of these varied forms of art; the artistic impulse developed in the human mind wherever it traveled.

The Oxford Handbook of American Film History Jon Lewis, 2025 In a series of newly commissioned chapters, The Oxford Handbook of American Film History offers a new and fully compelling discussion of American film as marked by significant moments of industrial and artistic change. Many of the chapters are built upon primary-sourced research, while others detail aspects of form and style. Together, the chapters in this book show a history shaped by multiple theses and voices and interests.
