Transnational Spaces:

Transnational Social Spaces Eyüp Özveren, 2017-03-02 The ongoing processes of globalization and regionalization have drawn attention away from the traditional domains of nation states and their interaction. However, the border crossing activities of non-state agencies, organizations, and institutions should not be overlooked as they can shed new light on our common understanding of the contemporary world. Using the concept of transnational social spaces, contributors to this volume demonstrate the importance of transnational spaces. A collaborative project by experts across the social science disciplines, Transnational Social Spaces focuses in particular on the German-Turkish context. Transnational Spaces Philip Crang, Claire Dwyer, Peter Jackson, 2004-07-31 Social relations in our globalising world are increasingly stretched out across the borders of two or more nation states. Yet despite the growing academic interest in transnational economic networks, political movements, and cultural forms, too little attention has been paid to the transformations of space that these processes both reflect and reproduce. Transnational Spaces takes an innovative perspective, looking at transnationalism as a social space that can be occupied by a wide range of actors, not all of whom are themselves directly connected to transnational migrant communities. Transnational Spaces and Regional Localization. Social Networks, Border Regions and Local-Global Relations Angela Pilch Ortega, Barbara Schröttner, 2012 Globalization has encouraged worldwide mobility, intensified migration, and supported growing interconnectedness through new technologies. It has therefore substantially contributed to the development of so-called transnational spaces. This volume focuses on transnational spaces which should not be understood as locations on a map or as sealed containers but instead as relational social areas which are composed of various relationships. Transnationalization increases liberation and/or emancipation from place because social relations overcome physical space and local, regional, and national boundaries. As a consequence, a reconfiguration of social, cultural, political, and economic scopes of action occurs. This volume reveals that for people in general and for migration movements in particular, new borders have been established in many places all over the world. The biographies of global actors and migrants reference this alteration of space. Additionally, this volume calls special attention to border regions and their social configurations. Borders appear as narratives which can have an enormous impact on social structures. This book further deals with different aspects and various tensions having to do with local and global change, interplay, and interdependence. Globalization leads to development that often ignores regional needs, supports the continuation of post-colonial power, and maintains hegemonic dominance. New Transnational Social Spaces Ludger Pries, 2013-02-01 Recent terms such as globalisation, virtual reality, and cyberspace indicate that the traditional notion of the geographic and the social space is changing. New Transnational Social Spaces illustrates the contemporary relationship between the social and the spatial, which has emerged with new communication and transportation technologies alongside the massive transnational movement of people. Beyond Transnationalism Sonja Levsen, Kiran Klaus Patel, 2023-05-22 This book is a collection of case studies that provides fresh insights into the history of political activism in Europe's long 1970s. It covers the full spectrum of such groups from the far left to the neofascist right and from the various parts of Europe including East and West. The chapters in this book push the boundaries of our knowledge with regard to transnational spaces. For many political activists at the time, identifying with a transnational or global protest movement provided both legitimacy for their claims and stood for the promise of sweeping change. Existing research has often reproduced such perceptions. This book goes beyond such an approach by distinguishing between different forms of transnational spaces. More specifically, it recognizes important differences between imagined spaces of solidarity and belonging, spaces of knowledge circulation, and spaces of social experience and political action. Each chapter uses this new framework and analyses the interrelationship and significance of each of these three spaces. Beyond Transnationalism will be of particular interest to historians, political scientists, and educators. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of European Review of History.

Migration and Transnational Social Spaces Ludger Pries, 1999. Although globalisation brings work to some places all over the world, the growing international mobility of workers and refugees will be one of the strongest social and political challenges at the end of this century. At the same time, and in part originated by globalisation and transnational migration, there is emerging a qualitative new social reality of transnational social spaces built by pluri-locally spanned social institutions, life trajectories, and the biographical projects in specific institutional settings and material infrastructures. This volume presents conceptual frameworks and empirical studies of transnational migration processes and the emergence of pluri-social transnational social spaces.

Empires, Post-Coloniality and Interculturality Leoncio Vega, 2014-09-24. Empires, Post-Coloniality and Interculturality: The New Challenges for Comparative Education presents some outcomes of the 25th Conference of the Comparative Education Society in Europe (CESE) held in Salamanca in June 2012. The central aim proposed for the debates of the Conference revolves around an intellectual effort to re-think and re-direct the scientific discipline of Comparative Education based on the broad cultural trends that influence the internationalization and/or globalization of education. Reconsidering and/or re-thinking our discipline involves studying the influence exerted on it by three major international forces. First, empires, not so much in terms of discipline or governance but more related to cultural, technological, and knowledge perspectives. This area addresses both historical process and contemporary circumstances and is expressed through networks, research programs, academic reform in universities supported by criteria of governance and efficiency, transnational mobility, and linguistic monopolies. Second, it is necessary to re-think the influence of post-colonialism in educational models and models of citizens' education, not only from the perspective of their impact on the curricular reorganization of education systems but also of their educational and sociocultural expression. Both forms were acclaimed both in the 19th century and the 20th century within different international geographic contexts. The third component of the discourse triangle is the reconsideration, not only historical, of the impact of migratory fluxes or, better said, of cultural migrations and their relationship with the reordering of curricular and educational processes in both education systems and in the social framework Education is now in a transition from monoculture to multiple cultures in the classroom This publication is structured along four themes that illustrate the academic contributions to the Conference The themes are as follows I From Empires History and Memory Comparative Studies of Education II Learning and Assessment Processes an International Perspective III Transnational Education and Colonial Approach IV International Education Comparative Dimensions

Power and Pluralism in International Law Edward S. Cohen, 2022-03-10 Demonstrating the crucial role that private international law and legality has played and continues to play in shaping globalization this book argues that the rules institutions and actors that make up the practice of private international law have been critical in translating political and economic power into legal regimes that have facilitated the processes of globalization These processes depend on two fundamental types of socio political action the legal structuring of emerging transnational spaces and flows of goods capital and finance and the legal political reconfiguration of state power and priorities to facilitate the growth of these spaces and their penetration into national political economic and social spaces While a variety of processes were involved in these forms of action the material practices of private international law played a central role in this project of political economic reconstruction Offering a theory of private international legality as a practice that intersects with and provides a vehicle for the mobilization of political and economic power this book examines the construction and enrolment of private law expertise and the structural condition of pluralism in the global political economy to argue that private international law has helped construct a global political economy responsive to the priorities of powerful actors and resistant to the demands and interests of the rest of the world s populations It will be of interest to academics and students exploring the relationship between law international political economy and the nature of state power

Language and Space Peter Auer, Jürgen Erich Schmidt, 2010 The dimensions of time and space fundamentally cause and shape the variability of all human language To reduce investigation of this insight to manageable proportions researchers have traditionally concentrated on the deepest dialects But it is increasingly apparent that although most people still speak with a distinct regional coloring the new mobility of speakers in recently industrialized and postindustrial societies and the efflorescence of communication technologies cannot be ignored This has given rise to a reconsideration of the relationship between geographical place and cultural space and the fundamental link between language and a spatially bounded territory Language and Space An International Handbook of Linguistic Variation seeks to take full account of these developments in a comprehensive theoretically rich way The introductory volume examines the concept of space and linguistic approaches to it the structure and dynamics of language spaces and relevant research methods A second volume offers the first thorough exploration of the interplay between linguistic investigation and cartography and subsequent volumes uniformly document the state of research into the spatial dimension of particular language groupings Key features comprehensive coverage of the field in terms of theory and methods the unique volume stands alone since it neither is a handbook of dialectology or of areal linguistics nor a handbook on language variation alone gathers together a great number of distinguished scholars and experts in the field

Creating a Transnational Space in the First Year Writing Classroom W. Ordeman, 2021-05-04 During the first twenty years of the new millennium many scholars turned their attention to translingualism an idea that focuses on the merging of language in distinct social and spatial contexts to serve unique mutually constitutive and temporal purposes This volume joins the more recent shift in pedagogical studies towards an altogether distinct phenomenon transnationalism By developing a framework for transnational pedagogical practice this volume demonstrates the exclusive opportunities afforded to freshmen writers who write in transnational spaces that act as points of fusion for several cultural lingual and national identities With reference to recent works on translingualism and transnationalism this volume is an attempt to conceptualize effective writing pedagogy in freshman writing courses which are becoming more and more transnational It also provides educators and first year writing administrators with practical pedagogical tools to help them use their transnational spaces as a means of achieving their desired learning outcomes as well as teaching students threshold concepts of composition studies This volume will be particularly useful for first year writing faculty at colleges and universities as well as writing program administrators to create a more effective curriculum that addresses these needs in classroom settings All scholars with a doctorate in Rhetoric and Composition English as a Second Language Translation Studies to name a few will also find this a valuable resource

Migration and Social Pathways Anna Gulich, 2017-10-02 The landscape of European migration has changed considerably over the past decades in particular after the fall of the iron curtain and again after the EU enlargement to the east The author researches the phenomenon of highly qualified migration using the example of migration between the Czech Republic and Germany The book reveals diverse strategies migrants use to respond to the possible de valuation of their qualification e g by making use of their language skills starting new studies or using transnational knowledge

Going First Class? Vered Amit, 2007 This collection of essays explores a diversity of circumstances and impetuses towards contemporary mobility It ranges from expatriates to peripatetic professionals to middle class migrants in search of extended educational and career opportunities to people seeking self development through travel either by moving after retirement or visiting educational retreats This seeks to tease out the scope and implications of the relatively privileged circumstances under which these voyages are being undertaken Jacket Transnational Spaces in History, 2009

Constructing Transnational Political Spaces Stephanie Schütze, 2016-04-29 This book analyzes Mexican migrant organizations in the US and their political influence in home communities in Mexico By connecting multifaceted arenas of Mexican migrant s activism it traces the construction of transnational political spaces The author s ethnographic work in the state of Michoac n and in Chicago shows how these transnational arenas overcome the limits of traditional political spaces the nation state and the local community and bring together intertwined facets of the political The book examines how actors engage in politics within transnational spaces it delineates the different trajectories and agendas of male and female indigenous and non indigenous migrant activists it demonstrates how the local and actor centered levels are linked to the regional or state levels as well as to the federal levels of politics and finally it shows how these multifaceted arenas constitute transnational spaces that have implications for politics and society in Mexico and the US alike AlterNative Spaces Katja Sarkowsky, 2007 Space so the basic assumption of this study plays a central role for transcultural processes in contemporary Native American and First Nations literature How is writing space constitutive for cultural politics in Native American First Nations texts How does it affect specific aspects of cultural politics gender politics in particular And are the spaces constructed in Native literature alterNative in the sense that they offer Native alternatives to hegemonic constructions Building on interdisciplinary theoretical approaches to the production of space AlterNative Spaces highlights the ways in which the authors under consideration Leslie Marmon Silko Tomson Highway Gerald Vizenor and Thomas King construct overlapping ambivalent and sometimes contradictory literary spaces by drawing on a variety of cultural codes Contemporary Native literatures are thus read as part of a complex cultural web in which the meanings of culture and Native are constantly negotiated through the construction of spaces These constructions this study argues critically reposition Native writing and individual Native authors both as part of and challenge to U S American and Canadian cultures and literatures

VLB Security in Transnational Spaces Silvia D'Amato, Athina Sachoulidou, 2023-05-29 This book focuses on transnationalism as a key concept to evaluate how Europe experiences perceives and responds to current cross border security challenges from a legal and political perspective The chapters in this volume specifically provide state of the art accounts on several legal and political developments that have recently taken place in relation to transnational issues such as terrorism irregular migration and human rights violations It specifically discusses how Europe experiences perceives and responds to security challenges with the expectation to identify those facets of transnationalism that would equally concern political scientists and legal scholars especially those working on subjects pertaining to the EU governance Through a timely analysis of the specificities of these cases the book contributes to a much wider debate on whether and to what extent the changes and practices identified are still in accordance with cornerstones of the EU governance project such as fundamental freedoms democracy and the rule of law Overall the book provides a fresh reading on the current status of security across Europe and the way it is understood and practiced from a multidisciplinary perspective With a revised introduction and a new conclusion this edited volume this is the ideal companion for students researchers and practitioners interested in law public policy and administration and security This book was originally published in the Journal of Contemporary European Studies

Transnational American Spaces Tina Powell, Patricia Sagasti Suppes, 2022-04 As people migrate they face the need to create a stable space within a disconcertingly unfamiliar environment This experience of creating new spaces opens opportunities for positive transcultural connections however these opportunities can also serve as the disciplining of the migrant body This text focuses on the movement of bodies in transnational communities and the formation of domestic and communal spaces that provide respite from migratory paths negotiate transnational relationships or establish a new home In doing so we explore literary texts that question challenge and deepen our understanding of the experience of migration through the use of space and place The texts in question examine three levels of transnational spaces intimate spaces such as family personal growth or sexuality inherited spaces reflected in generational conflicts religious identity and inherited histories and national spaces that look at issues of broader national identities The texts we examine engage with transnational communities within the United States and the ways in which narratives reimagine new space to negotiate change and create new norms These narratives can sometimes bridge both cultures or can sometimes result in a violent sense of displacement Each chapter problematizes a different aspect of transcultural adaptation and the geographic ties of each community focus reflect the multicultural reality of the U S with connections to Asia the Caribbean Europe the Middle East and Latin America
