Transportation For Livable Cities:

Transportation for Livable Cities Vukan Vuchic, 2017-09-08 The twenty first century finds civilization heavily based in cities that have grown into large metropolitan areas Many of these focal points of human activity face problems of economic inefficiency environmental deterioration and an unsatisfactory quality of life problems that go far in determining whether a city is livable A large share of these problems stems from the inefficiencies and other impacts of urban transportation systems The era of projects aimed at maximizing vehicular travel is being replaced by the broader goal of achieving livable cities economically efficient socially sound and environmentally friendly This book explores the complex relationship between transportation and the character of cities and metropolitan regions Vukan Vuchic applies his experience in urban transportation systems and policies to present a systematic review of transportation modes and their characteristics Transportation for Livable Cities dispels the myths and emotional advocacies for or against freeways rail transit bicycles and other modes of transportation The author discusses the consequences of excessive automobile dependence and shows that the most livable cities worldwide have intermodal systems that balance highway and public transit modes while providing for pedestrians bicyclists and paratransit Vuchic defines the policies necessary for achieving livable cities the effective implementation of integrated intermodal transportation systems Transportation for Livable Cities ,1999 Transport and livable cities ,1996 Transportation for Livable Communities ,1994 Affordable Urban Transportation Michael Burrill,1997 Alternatives to the Automobile Marcia D. Transportation Issues in Large U.S. Cities National Research Council (U.S.). Transportation Research Board,1999 In June 1998 in Detroit Michigan transportation officials from the 12 largest cities in the United States the U S Department of Transportation DOT several state departments of transportation metropolitan planning organizations transit properties and other concerned organizations came together to participate in a conference to begin to develop a better understanding of the issues and to improve transportation in large U S cities One of the most important things the conference did was establish a set of research and policy issues and needs that as they are acted on by the various stakeholders and interested parties should improve mobility in the large urban centers of America An important background theme throughout the conference was the central role large cities play in the economic and social health of the country These conference proceedings contain an introduction conference overview the presentations by seven guest speakers six resource papers a list of best practices and a list of participants Departments of Transportation, and Housing and Urban Development, and Related Agencies Appropriations for 2010, Part 5, June 19, 2009, 111-1 Hearings ,2010 Connecting Transportation Decision Making with Responsible Land Use ,2008 Connecting Transportation Decision Making with Responsible Land Use State and Regional Policies Programs and Incentives highlights a growing number of state and regional initiatives aimed at curbing unsustainable land use patterns through the use of targeted transportation funding Just as a disconnect between transportation decision making and land use planning can develop and continue sprawling urban conditions the linkage between the two processes can in contrast foster responsible growth This report is intended to provide planning agencies at various levels of government with tools that can be used to strengthen the connection between transportation and land use planning This report showcases 17 jurisdictions in the United States that have developed policies programs and incentives to connect transportation funding with various smart growth efforts These jurisdictions are both state governments and regional planning agencies The programs reviewed have had varying levels of success and have implemented a range of approaches in order to meet program goals This variety of approaches shows that there is no single formula for achieving a strong linkage between transportation funding and responsible land use planning These various approaches show that success in linking transportation planning with land use decision making most likely depends on creating context specific strategies
