Religious Emotions Walter Van Herck, Willem Lemmens, 2009-05-05 In recent decades contemporary Anglo American philosophy has seen a boom in publications on the subject of the emotions Most publications focus on the cognitive value of emotions and on their moral significance The role which emotions play in religion however has so far received little attention In this volume a number of scholars present their research on religious emotions Is there a category of religious emotions What is so distinctive about them Was there really a Christian inspired repression of the emotions Or did Christianity also make use of the human emotional potential How is the relation between religion and emotions conditioned by the process of secularisation How and why did a shift from the concept of passion to that of emotion occur from the eighteenth century on This collection includes systematical treatments as well as historical approaches of these issues The last part gives some paradigmatic cases of religious emotions like emptiness and oceanic feeling In the study of what constitutes a human being neither religion nor emotion can be neglected The reader is invited to reflect on their interaction

The Mess Inside Peter Goldie, 2012-06-28 Peter Goldie explores the ways in which we think about our lives our past present and future in narrative terms The notion of narrative is highly topical and highly contentious in a wide range of fields including philosophy psychology and psychoanalysis historical studies and literature The Mess Inside engages with all of these areas of discourse and steers a path between the sceptics who are dismissive of the idea of narrative as having any worthwhile use at all and those who argue that our very selfhood is somehow constituted by a narrative After introducing the notion of narrative Goldie discusses the way we engage with the past in narrative terms This involves an exploration of the essentially perspectival nature of narrative thinking which gains support from much recent empirical work on memory Drawing on literary examples and on work in psychoanalysis Goldie considers grief as a case study of this kind of narrative thinking extending to a discussion of the crucial notion of closure Turning to narrative thinking about our future Goldie discusses the many structural parallels between our imaginings of the future and our memories of the past and the role of our emotions in response to what we imagine in thinking about our future in the light of our past This is followed by a second case study an exploration of self forgiveness In this ground breaking book Goldie supports scepticism about the idea that there is such a thing as a narrative self but argues that having a narrative sense of self quite distinct from any metaphysical notion of selfhood is at the heart of what it is to think of ourselves and others as having a narratable past present and future
