Understanding Nuclear Weapons and Arms Control Teena Mayers,1986 Understanding Weapons and Arms Control Teena Mayers,1991 An introduction to modern weapons and the issues surrounding them Nuclear Arguments Lynn Eden,Steven E. Miller,1989 Computer disk A collection of computer programs and databases that you can use to simulate nuclear wars under scenarios that you posit Up in Arms Sandra Sedacca,1984 Nuclear Arms Control National Academy of Sciences,Policy and Global Affairs,Office of International Affairs,Committee on International Security and Arms Control,1985-02-01 This nontechnical overview of developments in nuclear arms control describes how the United States and the Soviet Union arrived at their present positions and where they might go from here According to Foreign Affairs This book is proof that the complexities of arms control can be successfully explained in a nontechnical and even more importantly nonpartisan manner It presents the key issues in a clear thorough and remarkably up to date way Strongly recommended as a primary source for classroom and public discussions Arms Control and Nuclear Weapons William Gary Nichols,L Boykin,1987-09-09 This wide ranging collection of essays establishes a historical framework for understanding the evolution and current state of U S and Soviet policies toward arms control as it details the course of arms control negotiations between the two superpowers In addition it treats arms control nuclear armaments and strategic considerations from a variety of perspectives examining the social and moral aspects as well as political and economic considerations The Superpowers and Nuclear Arms Control Dennis Menos,1990-04-23 The nuclear arsenals of the United States and the Soviet Union are larger better equipped and deadlier than at any other time in history This incisive book contends that the superpowers while exhibiting enormous ingenuity in the area of arms development have shown only a minimal interest toward the containment of arms This is a carefully documented evaluation of the mismanagement of nuclear arms control by the superpowers and of their failure to contain the nuclear arms race despite their involvement in the process for over a quarter of a century Only the superpowers can reduce the proliferation of nuclear arms and in the process lessen the likelihood of nuclear war through accident miscalculation or crisis escalation Yet forty four years after Hiroshima not a single wanted nuclear weapon has been eliminated by them The Superpowers and Nuclear Arms Control addresses a broad spectrum of nuclear arms control issues beginning with the history of the nuclear arms race the lukewarm attempts by the superpowers at nuclear arms control and the role of the nuclear havenots The book then considers current threats to arms control evidenced by the termination of the SALT regime and plans to discard the ABM Treaty A discussion of the congressional executive split on numerous key arms control issues is followed by conclusions drawn from observing decades of negotiation Comprehensive appendices contain valuable charts and other documents that reinforce the content of the text This resource is a useful tool for arms control and disarmament activists students and researchers and for the many men and women everywhere who are at a loss to understand why so little is being accomplished in this critical area Arms Control

Control Stuart Croft,1996 In this groundbreaking analysis Stuart Croft brings the subject of arms control into the era of complex multi polar international relations He moves beyond the narrow definitions of the phenomenon associated with the Cold War to show how it not only has a long past but also a clear future The author begins by tracing the history of agreements between polities over weapons back to ancient times An understanding of this history allows him to put forward a typology of arms control It occurs at the end of major conflicts stabilises balances between states develops norms of behaviour manages weapons proliferation and acts as a tool of international organisations Stuart Croft examines the evolution of these five qualitatively different strategies and applies the typology to arms control agreements in the post Cold War world This definitive new study will be of interest to students in international relations and security studies as well as specialists in these disciplines

Drones and Global Order Paul Lushenko,Srinjoy Bose,William Maley,2021-12-28 This book explores the implications of drone warfare for the legitimacy of global order The literature on drone warfare has evolved from studying the proliferation of drones to measuring their effectiveness to exploring their legal moral and ethical impacts These three waves of scholarship do not however address the implications of drone warfare for global order This book fills the gap by contributing to a fourth wave of literature concerned with the trade offs imposed by drone warfare for global order The book draws on the English School of International Relations Theory which is premised on the existence of a society of states bounded by common norms values and institutions to argue that drone warfare imposes contradictions on the structural and normative pillars of global order These consist of the structure of international society and diffusion of military capabilities as well as the sovereign equality of states and laws of armed conflict The book presents a typology of contradictions imposed by drone warfare within and across these axes that threaten the legitimacy of global order This framework also suggests a confounding consequence of drone warfare that scholars have not hitherto explored rigorously drone warfare can sometimes strengthen global order The volume concludes by proposing a research agenda to reconcile the complex and often counter intuitive impacts of drone warfare for global order This book will be of considerable interest to students of security studies global governance and International Relations

Resources in Education ,1985 China's Globalisation and the New World Order Najimdeen Bakare,Adam Saud,2025 Zusammenfassung Shifting away from the journalistic representations of the discourse this book delves into the various contours that characterize China s recent globalization of infrastructure development It analyzes how this form of globalization nuances our understanding of development altering the construct of development and thereby paving the way for the emergence of a global order crafted in China s own image The book also elucidates how the growing Chinese influence should not be regarded as a novel phenomenon but rather as a reconstruction of the past and a continuation of the tradition of major power often directed towards establishing a geostrategic geopolitical and geoeconomic niche This signifies a broader shift in the structure of the global international system As part of the tradition of major power China's strategic hedging and positioning transcend not only material or concrete manifestations but also encompass epistemic hedging and positioning The first section of the book examines international perspectives on the changing dynamics of the global order through the lens of China's epistemic contributions to the formation of a new world order or a multipolar world order It explores the rivalry between China and existing Euro American powerhouses and alternative approaches employed by China to assert itself The book also devotes ample attention to the attendant implications of these emerging dynamics The other section of the book delves into the reflections of regional actors on China's new role in a changing world order It addresses the prospects and challenges of China's economic expansionism and the catalyzing effects of China's globalization of infrastructure within and beyond regions proximal to China Bakare Najimdeen is Associate Professor at the Department of International Relations and Strategic Studies Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences Universiti Malaya UM Kuala Lumpur Malaysia Adam Saud is serving Bahria University Pakistan as Dean faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences He has Masters degree in Political Science and PhD in International Relations
