Watching Television:

Women Watching Television Andrea L. Press, 1991-03 Women's inclinations to identify with television characters varies with their assessment of the realism of these characters and their social world

How to Watch Television, Second Edition Ethan Thompson, Jason Mittell, 2020-03-31 A new edition that brings the ways we watch and think about television up to the present We all have opinions about the television shows we watch but television criticism is about much more than simply evaluating the merits of a particular show and deeming it good or bad Rather criticism uses the close examination of a television program to explore that program's cultural significance creative strategies and its place in a broader social context How to Watch Television Second Edition brings together forty original essays more than half of which are new to this edition from today's leading scholars on television culture who write about the programs they care and think the most about Each essay focuses on a single television show demonstrating one way to read the program and through it our media culture From fashioning blackness in Empire to representation in Orange Is the New Black and from the role of the reboot in Gilmore Girls to the function of changing political atmospheres in Roseanne these essays model how to practice media criticism in accessible language providing critical insights through analysis suggesting a way of looking at TV that students and interested viewers might emulate The contributors discuss a wide range of television programs past and present covering many formats and genres spanning fiction and non fiction broadcast streaming and cable Addressing shows from TV's earliest days to contemporary online transformations of the medium How to Watch Television Second Edition is designed to engender classroom discussion among television critics of all backgrounds To access additional essays from the first edition visit the links tab at nyupress.org/9781479898817/how-to-watch-television-second-edition

The Psychology of Binge Watching TV Barrie Gunter, 2024-11-22 This fascinating work provides an up to date examination of shifts in the nature and impact of TV and video watching that have largely been driven by non linear TV and video services online The book reviews research evidence from around the world about the physical and behavioural shift of viewing away from linear and towards non linear TV and video services It studies the psychological factors that underpin and drive this shift and the impact of binge watching behaviour on people's physical and psychological health and social relationships Along the way it differentiates between binge watching and heavy viewing and considers binge watching as a distinctive form of TV video use that has its own reasons of occurrence and impacts The Psychology of Binge Watching TV is aimed principally at students and academics interested in psychology media mental health and other related disciplines It will also interest any readers looking to understand more about the psychology behind binge watching and the potentially positive and negative effects on audiences

The Televiewing Audience Robert Abelman, David J. Atkin, 2011 This book won the Ohio Professional Writer's Inc 2014 Communication Competition Award Now in its second edition The Televiewing Audience is a user's guide for the only household appliance that doesn't come with one Watching television seems relatively effortless it is after all a major form of entertainment in the U S and overseas yet this book argues that there is nothing simple about watching television it is a learned activity which is in a constant state of revision and upgrading Now more than ever televieing requires the generation and application of critical thinking to guide program selection inform appreciation generate greater pleasure and inspire dialogue after consumption This book is about becoming a more thoughtful and informed consumer designed to shatter the anonymity of the televieer and to create a sense of community for we rarely think of ourselves as instrumental in the televieing experience or think of the experience as a shared event Designed for courses related to broadcasting media effects media literacy and audience studies this book provides a comprehensive overview of the ways in which television influences the way we think about ourselves and our culture It places us center stage in the extremely complicated competitive creative and costly endeavor that is television
