Landscape Architecture Magazine, 1930     Landscape Architecture, 1930     Water-Related Urbanization and Locality
Fang Wang, Martin Prominski, 2020-05-03 This book discusses the protection planning and design of sustainable urban water environments. Against the backdrop of environmental changes, it addresses issues of water resource protection and sustainable development in China and Germany at different stages of urbanization, as well as relevant strategies and lessons learned. It focuses on three topics: balance between water environment protection and utilization in the urbanization process; sustainable use of water resources in the urbanization process; and water-related planning and design strategies in urbanization and local cultural development processes. In the context of water resources, China and Germany can learn from each other's experiences and can support one another in the fields of urbanization and locality. As such, the book brings together Chinese and German scientists from various disciplines such as planning, geography, landscape architecture, tourism, ecology, hydraulic engineering, and history to provide a multicultural and multidisciplinary perspective on the topic and examine the challenges and opportunities, as well as the planning and design strategies to achieve sustainable water-related urban spaces. By combining theoretical and practical approaches, it appeals to academics and practitioners around the globe.

Fluid Soils Laura Cipriani, 2024-07-08 The relationship between soil and water is at the center of interest now more than ever. Despite being a UNESCO World Heritage Site of extraordinary environmental value and beauty, the Wadden Sea, its territories, and its people now face an uncertain future while wrestling with latent climatic, economic, productive, and social crises. Subsidence, increased by gas extraction and peat oxidation, soil erosion, saltwater intrusion, eutrophication, and agricultural water pollution testify to a territory in the throes of long-term repossession by the sea. Can we co-design the Wadden Sea landscapes? How can we transform these emergencies into opportunities? Based upon applied research work in regional scenario making and local design projects, the book attempts to imagine the present and future of the Wadden Sea and its hinterland, adopting co-designing approaches. Peatlands, agriculture, energy, and heritage all intersect to encourage economies and social inclusion projects where the landscapes of soil and water become the driving force to overcome the crises.

Along with eight other disciplines from domains as diverse as planning and design, the arts, and humanities, as well as the social and natural sciences, they are all fields of importance to the theory and practice of landscape architecture. In the context of the EU-funded LE NOTRE Project, carried out under the auspices of ECLAS, the European Council of Landscape Architecture Schools, international experts from a wide range of related fields were asked to reflect each from their own perspective on the interface between their discipline and landscape architecture The resulting insights presented in this book represent an important contribution to the development the discipline of landscape architecture as well as suggesting new ways in which future collaboration can help to create a greater interdisciplinary richness at a time when the awareness of the importance of the landscape is growing across a wide range of disciplines Exploring the Boundaries of Landscape Architecture is the first systematic attempt to explore the territory at the boundaries of landscape architecture It addresses academics professionals and students not just from landscape architecture but also from its neighbouring discipline all of whom will benefit from a better understanding their areas of shared interest and the chance to develop a common language with which to converse
