Watercolor Still Life:

Cézanne in the Studio Carol Armstrong, 2004-11-01 In the last years of his life Paul Cézanne produced a stunning series of watercolors many of them still lifes Still Life with Blue Pot is one of these late masterpieces that is now in the collection of the Getty Museum In Cézanne in the Study Still Life in Watercolors Carol Armstrong places this great painting within the context of Cézanne's artistic and psychological development and of the history of the genre of still life in France Still life like the medium of watercolor was traditionally considered to be low in the hierarchy of French academic paintings Cézanne chose to ignore this hierarchy creating monumental still life watercolors that contained echoes of grand landscapes and even historical paintings in the manner of Poussin the highest of classical art forms In so doing he changed his still lifes with new meanings both in terms of his own notoriously difficult personality and in the way he used the genre to explore the very process of looking at and creating art Carol Armstrong's study is a fascinating exploration of the brilliant watercolor paintings that brought Cézanne's career to a complex and triumphant conclusion The book includes new photographic studies of the Getty's painting that allow the reader to encounter this great watercolor as never before in all of its richness and detail

Painting Still Life in Watercolour Lesley E. Hollands, 2009 Still life painting is a beautiful tranquil art which is as rewarding for the novice as for the experienced artist This practical book captures the essence of still life and uses a wonderful array of subjects to celebrate its possibilities in watercolor subjects that range from a collection of curiosities brought back from a walk on the beach and a pile of fruit and vegetables unpacked on the kitchen work top to a more formally arranged group of carefully chosen objects This book guides you from the beginning stages of painting a single object to more challenging and complex groups and finally to a range of approaches to abstract painting Compositions include fabrics china glass flowers and fruit and vegetables

A Southern Collection, 1993-02-01 A Southern Collection presents select masterworks from the permanent collection of the Morris Museum of Art on the occasion of the institution's inaugural exhibition Drawn from a comprehensive survey collection of painting in the South from the late eighteenth century to the present day the museum's opening exhibit explores an artistic terrain as rich and diverse as the South itself arranged in categories that reflect critical chronological developments in the art world A survey of painting activity in the South begins with the travels of itinerant portrait artists working prior to the Civil War At the same time landscape painting encompasses a sensitive response to the swamps bayous and fertile fields of the South Late in the nineteenth century strong and vivid genre painting competes with the nostalgic effects realized by Southern impressionists whose shimmering liquid images are invested with an elusive spirit of place In this century those strains of realism and naturalism that characterize the classic body of Southern writing appear in the representational art of painters who defied the modern abstract dictum And finally the exciting compelling works of a current generation of both self taught artists and sophisticated contemporary painters complete this fascinating though sometimes neglected chapter in American art history
