Winchester Yields:

Winchester Yields J. Titow,2004-02-12 This collection not only antedates all others by some 50 years but is also by far the best series of account rolls in existence and the only one allowing for a study covering the whole of the 13th century

Winchester yields : a study in Medieval agricultural productivity J. Z. Titow,1972 The Agrarian History of England and Wales: Volume 3, 1348-1500 Edward Miller,Joan Thirsk,1991-07-18 The third volume of The Agrarian History of England and Wales which was first published in 1991 deals with the last century and a half of the Middle Ages It concerns itself with the new demographic and economic circumstances created in large measure by endemic plague

Bulletin ,1926 Decision-Making in Medieval Agriculture David Stone,2005-09-29 David Stone uses contemporary sources to reconstruct the world of the medieval farmer and argues against the traditional interpretation of the Middle Ages as economically backward Work and Progress of the Agricultural Experiment Station for the Year Ended December 31, 1925 Idaho Agricultural Experiment Station,1926 The Medieval Antecedents of English Agricultural Progress Bruce M.S. Campbell,2023-05-31

Until recently historians tended to stress the perceived technological and ecological shortcomings of medieval agriculture The ten essays assembled in this volume offer a contrary view Based upon close documentary analysis of the demesne farms managed for and by lords they show that by 1300 in the most commercialized parts of England production decisions were based upon relative factor costs and commodity prices Moreover when and where economic conditions were ripe and environmental and institutional circumstances favourable medieval cultivators successfully secured high and ecologically sustainable levels of land productivity They achieved this by integrating crop and livestock production into the sort of manure intensive systems of mixed husbandry which later underpinned the more celebrated output growth of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries If medieval agriculture failed to fulfill the production potential provided by wider adoption of such systems this is more appropriately explained by the want of the kind of market incentives that might have justified investment innovation and specialization on the scale that characterized the so called agricultural revolution than either the lack of appropriate agricultural technology or the innate backwardness of medieval cultivators Field Systems and Farming Systems in Late Medieval England Bruce M.S.

Campbell,2023-05-31 The later Middle Ages was an overwhelmingly rural world with probably three out of four households reliant upon farming for a living Yet conventional accounts of the period rarely do justice to the variety of ways in which the land was managed and worked The thirteen essays collected in this volume draw upon the abundant documentary evidence of the period to explore that diversity In the process they engage with the issue of classification without which effective generalisation is impossible and offer a series of solutions to that particularly thorny methodological challenge Only through systematic and objective classification is it possible to differentiate between and map different field systems husbandry types and land use categories That in turn makes it possible to consider and evaluate the relative roles of soils and topography institutional structures and commercialised market demand in shaping farm enterprise both during the period of mounting population before the Black Death and the long era of demographic decline that followed it What emerges is an agrarian world more commercialised differentiated and complex than is usually appreciated whose institutional and agronomic contours shaped the course of agricultural development for centuries to come Bulletin United States. Department of Agriculture,1928 Experiment Station Bulletin - University of Idaho, Agricultural Experiment Station Idaho Agricultural Experiment Station,1920 Includes its reports Bulletin - University of Idaho, Agricultural Experiment Station Idaho Agricultural Experiment Station,1923 Includes its reports Land, Labour, and Livestock B.
