Designing Public Policies Michael Howlett, 2019-01-18

The second edition of this highly regarded book provides a concise and accessible introduction to the principles and elements of policy design in contemporary governance. It examines in detail the range of substantive and procedural policy instruments that together comprise the toolbox from which governments choose tools to resolve policy problems and the principles and practices that lead to their use. Guiding readers through the study of the many different kinds of instruments used by governments in carrying out their tasks, adapting to and altering their environments, this book discusses current trends in instrument use linked to factors such as globalization and the increasingly networked digital and collaborative nature of modern society. It considers the principles and practices behind the selection and use of specific types of instruments in contemporary government and the future research agenda of policy design studies and practices. It evaluates in detail the merits, demerits, and rationales for the use of specific organization, regulatory, financial, and information-based tools and the trends visible in their use, including recent efforts to develop and deploy new tools such as nudges and choice architectures, co-production, and crowd sourcing. It addresses the issues surrounding not only individual tools but also concerning the evolution and development of instrument mixes, their relationship to policy styles, and the challenges involved in their re-design. Providing a comprehensive overview of this essential component of modern governance and featuring helpful definitions of key concepts, and further reading, this book is essential reading for all students of public policy administration and management.

Implementing Climate Change Measures in the EU Merle Grobbel, 2008-12-19

What changed in the United States with Hurricane Katrina was a feeling that we have entered a period of consequences. Al Gore. On February 05, 2007, the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change (IPCC) published the executive summary of its fourth assessment report to be published April 06, 2007. In the summary, it not only acknowledged that climate change is happening at an accelerated rate but also that its consequences would be dreary changes in precipitation and in wind patterns, a rise of the sea levels, and desertification will globally impact the frequency of disasters and impair living standards. Whether or not we believe climate change is happening, over the past two years we have witnessed a rise of the topic from oblivion to ubiquity and have experienced a growing emphasis on finding measures to prevent climate change. There is an unprecedented agreement among environmentalists, politicians, the public, and industry that we have to take effective action. Politicians are putting their creative plans to action unusually fast: Australia bans the light bulb, Belgium switches off lamps along lighted highways, and the US introduces daylight savings time two weeks earlier than in previous years. Industry, the most unlikely candidate for support, is rallying together in action groups like US Cap or 2 Grad and more and more.
