Vacuum Methods in Electron Microscopy Wilbur C. Bigelow,1994 This study provides full details and advice on the understanding and practical operation of the vacuum systems found in electron microscope laboratories The importance of the correct functioning of these systems is too frequently underestimated with the result that electron microscopes and other vacuum equipment such as freeze etching units and sputter coaters give less than their optimum performance Practical

Schultz,2013-11-11 The second edition of Physiology of Membrane Disorders represents an extensive revision and a considerable expansion of the first edition Yet the purpose of the second edition is identical to that of its predecessor namely to provide a rational analysis of membrane transport processes in individual membranes cells tissues and organs which in turn serves as a frame of reference for rationalizing disorders in which derangements of membrane transport processes play a cardinal role in the clinical expression of disease As in the first edition this book is divided into a number of individual but closely related sections Part V represents a new section where the problem of transport across epithelia is treated in some detail Finally Part VI which analyzes clinical derangements has been enlarged appreciably THE EDITORS xi Preface to the First Edition The purpose of this book is to provide the reader with a rational frame of reference for assessing the pathophysiology of those disorders in which derangements of membrane transport processes are a major factor responsible for the clinical manifestations of disease In the present context we use the term membrane transport to refer to those molecular processes whose cardinal function broadly speaking is processes in a catholic sense the vectorial transfer of molecules either individually or as ensembles across biological interfaces the latter including those interfaces which separate different intracellular compartments the cellular and extracellular compartments and secreted fluids such as glomerular filtrate and extracellular fluids
