Roger E. Kanet, ARMY WAR COLL STRATEGIC STUDIES INST CARLISLE BARRACKS PA., Army War College (U.S.). Strategic Studies Institute, 1980 This memorandum is concerned with the economic aspect of Soviet relations with the countries of the developing world It examines both the evolution of Soviet assistance programs and trade relations during the course of the past two decades and their importance for overall Soviet policy toward the developing world The memorandum concludes that two different stands in Soviet policy are developing a policy of political and military support for progressive regimes as part of the competition for influence with the United States and a more pragmatic economic orientation focused on long term benefits for the Soviet economy Author Developing the Third World Robert A. Agunga, 1997 Striding boldly where other scholars have feared to tread Agunga offers a definitive solution strategy for people centered development armed with his upbringing in Africa considerable field work experience and knowledge of the literature He argues that development projects and programs fail because planners and policy makers lack training in communications skills and urges governments and donor agencies to include communications professionals in their programs Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR
