stresses co dependence and similarities between the various sites considered Such an approach particularly within Byzantine and Early Islamic glass production is a pioneering concept that contextualises individual sites within the wider region By twinning a critique of archaeometric methods with the latest archaeological research the contributors present a foundation for glass research seen through the lens of consumption demands and geographical necessity that analyses production centres and traditional typological knowledge In so doing they bridge an important divide by demonstrating the co habitability of diverse approaches and disciplines linking for example the production of Campanulate bowls from Gallaecia with the burgeoning international late antique style Equally the particular details of those pieces allow us to identify a regional style as well as local production As such this compilation provides a highly valuable resource for archaeologists anthropologists and art historians
