The Prose of Life Benjamin M. Sutcliffe,2009-04-13 Both before and after the collapse of the Soviet Union everyday life and the domestic sphere served as an ideological battleground simultaneously threatening Stalinist control and challenging traditional Russian gender norms that had been shaken by the Second World War The Prose of Life examines how six female authors employed images of daily life to depict women s experience in Russian culture from the 1960s to the present By a term connoting both the everyday and its many petty problems is an enduring yet neglected theme in Russian literature its very ordinariness causes many critics to ignore it Benjamin Sutcliffe s study is the first sustained examination of how and why everyday life as a literary and philosophical category catalyzed the development of post Stalinist Russian women s prose particularly since the collapse of the Soviet Union A focus on the representation of everyday life in women s prose reveals that a first generation of female writers Natal ia Baranskaia Irina Grekova both legitimated and limited their successors Liudmila Petrushevskaiia Tat iana Tolstaia Liudmila Ulitskaia and Svetlana Vasilenko in their choice of literary topics The Prose of Life traces the development and intriguing ruptures of recent Russian women s prose becoming a must read for readers interested in Russian literature and gender studies 2009 Outstanding Academic Title Choice Magazine

Post-Soviet Women Writers and the National Imaginary, 1989-2009, 2013 Always a Woman, 1987 Women Writers in Russian Modernism Temira Pachmuss, 1978 Displacement and (Post)memory in Post-Soviet Women's Writing Marja Sorvari, 2022-04-22. The book examines prominent literary works from the past two decades by Russian women writers dealing with the Soviet past. It explores works such as Daniel Stein Interpreter by Ludmilla Ulitskaya, The Time of Women by Elena Chizhova, Secondhand Time, The Last of the Soviets by Svetlana Alexievich and In Memory of Memory by Maria Stepanova, and uncovers connecting thematic structures and features. Focusing on the concepts of displacement and postmemory, the book shows how these works have given voice to those on the margins of society and of great history whose resistance was often silent. In doing so, these women writers portray the everyday experiences and trauma of displaced women and girls during the second half of the twentieth century. This study offers new insights into the importance of these women writers' work in creating and preserving cultural memory in post-Soviet Russia.

Russian Women Writers Christine D. Tomei, 1999 Jewish Women Writers in the Soviet Union Rina Lapidus, 2013-03-01. This book presents the lives and works of eleven Jewish women authors who lived in the Soviet Union and who wrote and published their works in Russian. The works include poems, novels, memoirs, and other writing. The book provides an overview of the life of each author, an overview of each author's literary output, and an assessment of each author's often conflicted view of her feminine self and of her Jewish self. At a time when the large Jewish population which lived within the Soviet Union was threatened under Stalin's prosecutions, the book provides highly informative insights into what it was like to be a Jewish woman in the Soviet Union in this period. The writers presented are Alexandra Brustein, Elizaveta Polonskaia, Raisa Bloch, Hanna Levina, Olga Ziv, Yulia Neiman, Rahil Baumwohl, Margarita Alliger, Sarah Levina, Kulneva Sarah Pogreb, and Zinaida Mirkina.

Mapping Experience in Polish and Russian Women's Writing Urszula Chowaniec, 2010-09-13. The volume encompasses eleven articles which discuss the critical views that Polish and Russian women writers have articulated with regard to the notion of experience and constructions of femininity in the national imagination from the 19th to the 21st centuries. Major themes of the articles include women's experiences as writers in the 19th century, women's embodied experiences of a traumatic past, body and sexuality in the different ages of women, political and aesthetic discourses, and femininity. Although the articles are arranged in chronological order, they do not form an absolute chronological or periodic continuum, i.e. from Romanticism to Postmodernism, although references to certain aesthetic periods are made. The authors of the articles reflect in detail on how the women writers and their literary texts represent different understandings and experiences in relation to dominant perceptions, for example, of the memory of war, of motherhood, of art and aesthetics, and so on Readers are encouraged to seek parallels and continuities between the different historical times and spaces between women's writing in Russia and Poland between different scholarly approaches and aims The articles of this volume bring together important critical standpoints in women's writing in Poland and Russia in which parallels continuities and resemblances can be traced but in which discontinuities breaks and differences also make themselves visible Apart from the conspicuous resemblances between individual Russian and Polish women writers works or even between groups of women writers the articles document the diversity within Russian and Polish women's writing respectively and even within individual writers Women and Russia Tatyana Mamonova, Sarah Matilsky, 1984 Works by Soviet Women Writers, 1989
