Soviets In Space:

Soviets in Space Colin Turbett, 2022-01-12 The victory over Nazi Germany in 1945 in which the Soviet Union played both the greatest part and suffered the greatest losses found the country in a state of devastation Military strength could not compensate for the damage wreaked by war especially in the western areas of the USSR Within just over ten years not only was Stalin dead and the relative freedoms of the Khrushchev Thaw in progress but the Soviet Union was ahead in the Space Race beating the enormous wealth and resources of the USA launching Soviet citizens from ordinary backgrounds quite literally into worlds beyond our own The communist dream seemed alive and well The story of those years has rarely been told from a Soviet perspective Cold War journalism and historical accounts written in the West tend to portray the space race in terms of ideological competition with success and failure mirroring power and influence in a world divided between capitalism and communism Whilst the military on both sides certainly benefited from the cutting edge technological advance of the space programmes for the people of the USSR the prestige of their successes offered proof that real existing socialism was moving mankind onto new levels of peaceful progress Agriculture and railway building initiatives tried to involved ordinary people in other pioneering projects to build socialism before the dream shattered in the 1980s Extensively illustrated with images from the time this book looks at the years of Soviet space success their background the personalities involved and their impact on the ordinary people of the USSR

Soviets in Space Colin Burgess, 2022-08-08 A beautifully illustrated history of the Soviet Union's leading role in the space race In this deeply researched chronology Colin Burgess describes the then Soviet Union's extraordinary success in the pioneering years of space exploration Within a decade the Soviets not only launched the world's first satellite Sputnik in 1957 but they also were the first to send an animal and a human being into Earth orbit In the years that followed their groundbreaking missions sent a woman into space launched a three man spacecraft and included the first person to walk in space Six decades on from the historic spaceflight of cosmonaut Yuri Gagarin Burgess guides us through the amazing achievements of Russia's spaceflight program through to the present day introducing the men and women who have flown the missions that drive us to delve ever deeper into the wonders and complexities of the cosmos different payload Object D and the R 7 rocket launched from a hastily constructed launch pad and within minutes it entered orbit. It took that object, now more famously known as Sputnik 1, about 90 minutes to complete its orbit around the Earth, speeding along at 18,000 miles per hour while transmitting a distinct beeping noise by radio. Eventually, the Space Race produced some of the most iconic moments of the 20th century, including the landing of the first men on the Moon, and today the race is widely viewed poignantly and fondly as a race to the Moon that culminated with Apollo 11 winning the race for the United States. In fact, it encompassed a much broader range of competition between the Soviet Union and the United States that affected everything from military technology to successfully launching satellites that could land on Mars or orbit other planets in the Solar System. Moreover, the notion that America won the Space Race at the end of the 1960s overlooks just how competitive the Space Race actually was in launching people into orbit, as well as the major contributions the Space Race influenced in leading to today's International Space Station and continued space exploration.

Soviet Russia's Space Program During the Space Race: The History and Legacy of the Competition that Pushed America to the Moon chronicles the history of Russia's space development and the competition it fostered. Along with pictures of important people, places, and events, you will learn about the Russian space program like never before in no time at all. The Politics of Space William H. Schauer, 1976

The Soviet Space Program Eugen Reichl, 2019-03-28

With the launch of the Sputnik 1 satellite on October 4, 1957, the Soviet Union started the space race. The race for the moon soon followed. Here too, the USSR was ahead of the game: the first flyby of the moon, the first lunar impact probe, the first pictures of the far side, and the first soft landing. Defending the lead and thus demonstrating the superiority of communism was an ideological must for Soviet leadership. The United States soon caught up and surpassed the Soviet moon program. This book chronologically examines the fifty-nine missions the USSR sent or intended to send to the moon from 1959 to 1976. Eventually, the Soviets finally abandoned the idea of a manned moon landing, and for the following decade and a half, claimed that they never conducted such a program. Unmanned Soviet lunar flights continued until 1976, by which time they had used up all of the space probes built in the years previous.

Epic Rivalry Von Hardesty, Gene Eisman, 2007

Chronicles the epic race to the moon between the United States and the Soviet Union, discussing both countries' space exploration programs, the scientists and political leaders involved, and the key achievements and disasters of both.

The First Soviet Cosmonaut Team Colin Burgess, Rex Hall, 2008-12-23

The First Soviet Cosmonaut Team will relate who these men were and offer far more extensive background stories in addition to those of the more familiar names of early Soviet space explorers from that group. Many previously unpublished photographs of these missing candidates will also be included for the first time in this book. It will be a detailed but highly readable and balanced account of the history, training, and experiences of the first group of twenty cosmonauts of the USSR. A covert recruitment and selection process was set in motion throughout the Soviet military in August 1959, just prior to the naming of

America's Mercury astronauts Those selected were ordered to report for training at a special camp outside of Moscow in the spring of 1960 Just a year later Senior Lieutenant Yuri Gagarin of the Soviet Air Force promoted in flight to the rank of major was launched aboard a Vostok spacecraft and became the first person ever to achieve space flight and orbit the Earth

The Soviet Manned Space Programme Phillip Clark,1988 Traces the development of the Soviet space program from Sputnik to the Mir space station and looks at future Soviet plans for the exploration of space The Soviet Year in Space,1990 Challenge to Apollo Asif A. Siddiqi,2000 The book received the Emme Award for Astronautical Literature at the March 20 2000 luncheon of the Goddard Memorial Symposium sponsored by the American Astronautical Society Named in honor of the first NASA Historian Eugene Emme the Emme award was created in 1982 to annually recognize an outstanding book that increases public understanding of the past and potential impact of the field of astronautics
