Unattached Youth:

Reframing Irish Youth in the Sixties Carole Holohan, 2018-03-28 Reframing Irish Youth in the Sixties focuses on the position of youth in the Republic of Ireland at a time when the meaning of youth was changing internationally. It argues that the reformulation of youth as a social category was a key element of social change. While emigration was the key youth issue of the 1950s in this period, young people became a pivotal point around which a new national project of economic growth hinged. Transnational ideas and international models increasingly framed Irish attitudes to young people's education, welfare, and employment. At the same time, Irish youths were participants in a transnational youth culture that appeared to challenge the status quo. This book examines the attitudes of those in government, the media, in civil society, organisations, and religious bodies to youth and young people addressing new manifestations of youth culture and new developments in youth welfare work. In using youth as a lens, this book takes an innovative approach that enables a multi-faceted examination of the sixties, providing fresh perspectives on key social changes and cultural continuities.

Working with Unattached Youth George W. Goetschius, 1967

The Forgotten Kindertransportees Frances Williams, 2014-02-25 An exploration of the experiences of Kindertransportees in Scotland and the long-term effects these experiences had on their lives.

Working with Unattached Youth George W. Goetschius, M. Joan Tash, 2013-06-19 First published in 1998. This is Volume XI of the twelve in the Sociology of Youth and Adolescence series, which outlines the problem, approach, and method around a report of an enquiry into the ways and means of contacting and working with unattached young people in an inner London Borough. The importance of this book is in the definition of unattachment and in the perhaps unexpectedly wide range of implications for youth work and the Youth Service that might follow from it. Unattachment is defined as a conflict in expectations between those who offer the service (clubs, youth centres, and others in the Youth Service) and those the young people who want and need it but who are unable or unwilling to accept it on the conditions on which it is offered. In describing the work that gave rise to this definition, the authors help us to see that the conflict in expectations has its roots in a much wider context than we had been able to see before.

Young People and Community Safety Lynda Measor, Peter Squires, 2017-11-22 This title was first published in 2000. Effective service provisions for young people are often said to be the key to Community Safety planning, yet research frequently shows young people as over-controlled yet under-protected. Taking up this dilemma, this work draws upon a large survey of young people's attitudes towards the opportunities facing them and the communities in which they live. The book explores many aspects of young people's lives that adult society finds so disconcerting or threatening or which agency service providers find so difficult to address. The results of these surveys are contrasted with surveys amongst key agency personnel (social services, education, housing, police, and the youth service), developing contrasting perspectives on young people's needs. These findings are then further contrasted with a survey of adult community reactions, revealing markedly different levels of tolerance and intolerance. Discussion of the research findings is situated within a critical review of existing youth diversion and community safety policy initiatives which by listening to young people and resisting the demonization of the young attempts to take a fresh look at the contemporary youth question

Nurturing Pillars of Society Francis Wing-lin Lee, 2010-11-01 The younger generation those under the age of 25 account for more than a quarter of Hong Kong's population A much misunderstood group these people have special characteristics and needs and some are particularly vulnerable Substance abuse among young people is on the rise and juveniles make up a third of total arrests every year Extra effort and attention is required of policy makers educators and social workers to help this group make a positive contribution to society This book seeks to promote understanding of Hong Kong's younger generation and offers strategies for working with them and their families towards healthy and productive development Divided into three parts youth in general youth at risk and young offenders the book draws on international literature and empirical studies from within Hong Kong Its focus is on action always stressing the practical question of how to build a new model for working effectively with them This book will be essential reading for seasoned professionals as well as undergraduate students in criminology social policy and social work and postgraduates intending to practise in these areas Francis Wing lin Lee is an associate professor in the Department of Social Work and Social Administration in the University of Hong Kong The younger generation today has to face complex and diverse life challenges ranging from dysfunctional family systems unemployment hurdles of social mobility stressful school life and the bombardments of the new social media To help young people cope with these challenges they have to be given opportunities and choices for holistic growth and to acquire independent thinking and global vision This book provides thorough analysis and practical reference for youth workers that can enhance their understanding to work with our young people Christine Fang Chief Executive The Hong Kong Council of Social Service

Advances in Research Methods for Information Systems Research Kweku-Muata Osei-Bryson, Ojelanki Ngwenyama, 2013-11-25 Advances in social science research methodologies and data analytic methods are changing the way research in information systems is conducted New developments in statistical software technologies for data mining DM such as regression splines or decision tree induction can be used to assist researchers in systematic post positivist theory testing and development Established management science techniques like data envelopment analysis DEA and value focused thinking VFT can be used in combination with traditional statistical analysis and data mining techniques to more effectively explore behavioral questions in information systems research As adoption and use of these research methods expand there is growing need for a resource book to assist doctoral students and advanced researchers in understanding their potential to contribute to a broad range of research problems Advances in Research Methods for Information Systems Research Data Mining Data Envelopment Analysis Value Focused Thinking focuses on bridging and unifying these three different methodologies in order to bring them together in a unified volume for the information systems community This book serves as a resource that provides overviews on each method as well as applications on how they can be employed to address IS research problems Its goal is to help researchers in their continuous efforts to set the pace for having an appropriate interplay between behavioral research and design science

Enjoying the Track of Appearance: An Psychological Symphony within Unattached Youth

In a world taken by screens and the ceaseless chatter of instantaneous communication, the melodic splendor and psychological symphony developed by the prepared word usually disappear into the background, eclipsed by the relentless sound and disruptions that permeate our lives. But, set within the pages of Unattached Youth an enchanting fictional value overflowing with natural thoughts, lies an immersive symphony waiting to be embraced. Constructed by an elegant musician of language, that captivating masterpiece conducts readers on a psychological trip, well unraveling the concealed tunes and profound influence resonating within each carefully constructed phrase. Within the depths of the emotional examination, we shall discover the book is key harmonies, analyze their enthralling publishing model, and submit ourselves to the profound resonance that echoes in the depths of readers souls.
