EXCURSIONS TO THE MILLENNIUM DOME

Sorry Meniscus

David Anderson

Sorry Meniscus:

Iain Sinclair Brian Baker, 2013-01-18 A clearly written comprehensive critical introduction to one of the most original contemporary British writers providing an overview of all of Sinclair's major works and an analysis of his vision of modern London. This book places Sinclair in a range of contexts including the late 1960s counter culture and the British Poetry Revival. London's underground histories, the rise and fall of Thatcherism and Sinclair's writing about Britain under New Labour. Sinclair's connection to other writers and artists such as J.G. Ballard, Michael Moorcock and Marc Atkins. This book makes a significant contribution to the growing scholarship surrounding Sinclair's work, offering the first critical text that covers in detail all of Sinclair's work: his poetry, fiction, non-fiction, including his book on John Clare, Edge of the Orison, and his film work.

Maul Tricia Sullivan, 2013-10-31 The gun straps to the inside of my leg with Velcro. It's not the absolute zenith of fashion to do this anymore, but girls who wear theirs with leather straps and buckles aren't serious with Velcro; you can get at the thing when you need it. I also have a pink ammo belt. It's heavy, but who said fashion was easy. In a mall like any other, a gang of teenage girls are suddenly caught up in a maelstrom of shopping and violence. But as the designer bullets fly, it is not only their own lives they are fighting for. Unknown to them, they are battling for the life of a man trapped in another place in a different world and with very different enemies. He is a man they have never met but who represents the future of the human race or could destroy it.

City Visions Jenny Bavidge, Robert Bond, 2021-03-04 City Visions: The Work of Iain Sinclair collects fourteen pathbreaking essays treating the panoramic oeuvre of novelist, poet, filmmaker, and essayist Iain Sinclair. This book aims to reflect and develop the current strong interest in the work of Sinclair, who is widely recognized as one of the most significant figures in contemporary British literature and culture. The essays herein cover the key genres and periods of Sinclair's output, discussing his poetry, prose, and filmmaking, and are developed from the proceedings of the first academic conference on Sinclair, which was held at the University of Greenwich in 2004. Following the introductory chapter, which includes a brief survey of Sinclair's career up until now, the collection is arranged thematically in four sections. The first part, Contexts, features essays which comment on the critical categorization and definition of Sinclair's work. The second part, Culture and Critique, includes essays which explore the political import and contexts of Sinclair's oeuvre. The articles in the third part, Connections, look at the links between Sinclair and other writers, addressing the often noted intertextuality of his writing, and the final section, Spaces, contains three considerations of Sinclair's treatment of London's urban spaces. This collection provides access to the latest research by the leading scholars working in this area and will be a key point of reference for anyone interested in Sinclair's production. To some, the field of London writing may increasingly look like an indifferent, overpopulated wasteland. Iain Sinclair, however, remains pre-eminent by virtue not only of the amplitude of his knowledge of the city but of the intensity and complexity of his thought about it. He is the redemptive memorialist of a host of disregarded London cultures that lie quite beyond the reach of contemporary pieties. In that respect, he is less our Blake as he sometimes seems to believe than our Pepys or our Defoe At the same time he is an audacious experimenter with prose forms in the modernist tradition from Joyce to Burroughs and beyond Like the Sinclair phenomenon itself this valuable collection of essays is multifaceted illuminating its subject from a variety of different angles whilst very well aware that it is part of a work in progress It offers important testimony to the scope and power of a writer engaged in an original serious and necessary project Andrew Gibson Research Professor of Modern Literature and Theory Royal Holloway University of London This is an important and timely collection about arguably the most significant living London writer who is increasingly being recognised as an important contemporary English author in every sense Lawrence Phillips Principal Lecturer in English University of Northampton At last Iain Sinclair has the readers he deserves at least on the ample often provocative and always fascinating evidence of City Visions a collection of essays marked equally by panache and verve awareness of alternative cultural history and theoretical sophistication Over fourteen chapters critics with wide ranging interests gather their restless energies and obsessions in response to the scatter gun agitprop and guerilla intellectualism of Sinclair to produce a necessary and necessarily edgy volume In this admirably relentless collection Jenny Bavidge and Robert Bond offer an unnerving and inventive critical topography that uncovers the dark heart of a writer who is simultaneously the enfant terrible and minence grise of English letters Belles lettrists and other dilettantes be warned this is not a volume for the faint hearted these essays manifest an evangelical zeal equal to their subject s own in doing so they take us on an exhilarating intellectual adventure so refreshing in the world of lit crit where the polite formulas of sensible reading make one want to faint from ennui Professor Julian Wolfreys Loughborough University

The Politics and Aesthetics of Refusal Caroline

Hamilton, 2007 The Politics and Aesthetics of Refusal is an eclectic collection of essays from emerging academics who engage with the notion of refusal both as the embodiment of a resistance to conventional boundaries between academic disciplines and as a concept with an underlying negative or reactive force that can be widely interpreted and applied. The applications of refusal outlined in this volume ranging from activism and the politics of cultural production through to problems of identity and knowledge classification raise questions about often elided relationships of agency and complicity in routine experience. The sense of refusal that emerges from this book is perhaps most easily classified by what it is not namely a prescriptive conclusive or unified account of what it is to reject react or work against any particular instance of theory or practice in any given domain. The value of a thematically oriented collection like this is its ability to work across disciplines media and philosophical frameworks rather than limiting its focus to a narrow territory. According to Herbert Marcuse refusal must not only be the guiding principle for all artistic creation it must also be a manifestation of artistic creation itself. With this volume we have attempted to compose a collection which is not only theoretically guided by refusal but practically informed by it as well. The collection in itself constitutes we hope a constructive rejection of the usual constrictions of discipline and approach placed upon new scholars. This rich collection of essays on the political aesthetic and ethical dimensions of that form of social action called refusal is an important contribution to our understanding of the tensions and contradictions of contemporary culture.
