Writing Texts Processes And Practices:

Writing: Texts, Processes and Practices Christopher N. Candlin, Ken Hyland, 2014-06-11 Writing Texts Processes and Practices offers an innovative and multidisciplinary approach to writing in a variety of academic and professional settings. The book is composed of a series of original research based accounts by leading authorities from a range of disciplines. The papers are linked through a unifying perspective which emphasises the role of cultural and institutional practices in the construction and interpretation of written texts. This important new book integrates different approaches to text analysis, different perspectives on writing processes and the different methodologies used to research written texts. Throughout an explicit link is made between research and practice illustrated with reference to a number of case studies drawn from professional and classroom contexts. The book will be of considerable interest to those concerned with professional or academic writing and will be of particular value to students and lecturers in applied linguistics, communication studies, discourse analysis and professional communications training. The contributors to this volume are Robert J Barrett, Vijay K Bhatia, Christopher N Candlin, Yu Ying Chang, Sandra Gollin, Ken Hyland, Roz Ivanic, Mary R Lea, Ian G Malcolm, John Milton, Greg Myers, Guenter A Plum, Brian Street, John M Swales, Sue Weldon, Patricia Wright. EBOOK: Cross Cultural Perspectives on Educational Research Anna Robinson-Pant, 2005-11-16 Winner of the BMW Group LIFE Award for Contribution to Intercultural Learning 2007. The research student population of higher educational institutions continues to expand to include people from an ever widening range of cultural and educational backgrounds. However many research methods courses are still directed at the traditional student population. This book examines aspects of postgraduate research from a cross cultural perspective analysing the dilemmas faced by international students when defining a research question, choosing research methods, collecting data, deciding which language to use and writing their theses. Through an exploration of how international students re-examine their beliefs and research practices during their study in the UK, this book challenges the assumptions of all those engaged in educational research, addressing key questions such as: How do our teaching and learning experiences shape our approach to educational research? How do we judge good educational research? What does it mean to be critical? The book uses the real life experiences of international students to illuminate the kinds of challenges they may face. It supports both students and their supervisors, showing students how to approach cultural differences and supervisors how to deal sensitively with the problems encountered by overseas students in their research.

What Writing Does and How It Does It Charles Bazerman, Paul Prior, 2003-12-08 In What Writing Does and How It Does It editors Charles Bazerman and Paul Prior offer a sophisticated introduction to methods for understanding studying and analyzing texts and writing practices. This volume addresses a variety of approaches to analyzing texts and considers the processes of writing, exploring textual practices and their contexts and examining what texts do and how texts mean rather than what they mean. Included are traditional modes of analysis: rhetorical, literary, linguistic as well as newer modes such as text and talk genre and activity analysis and intertextual analysis The chapters have been developed to provide answers to a specified set of questions with each one offering a preview of the chapter's content and purpose an introduction to basic concepts referring to key theoretical and research studies in the area details on the types of data and questions for which the analysis is best used examples from a wide ranging group of texts including educational materials student writing published literature and online and electronic media one or more applied analyses with a clear statement of procedures for analysis and illustrations of a particular sample of data and a brief summary suggestions for additional readings and a set of activities The side by side comparison of methods allows the reader to see the multi dimensionality of writing facilitating selection of the best method for a particular research question The volume contributors are experts from linguistics communication studies rhetoric literary analysis document design sociolinguistics education ethnography and cultural psychology and each utilizes a specific mode of text analysis With its broad range of methodological examples What Writing Does and How It Does It is a unique and invaluable resource for advanced undergraduate and graduate students and for researchers in education composition ESL and applied linguistics communication L1 and L2 learning print media and electronic media It will also be useful in all social sciences and humanities that place importance on texts and textual practices such as English writing and rhetoric

International Students' Multilingual Literacy Practices Peter I. De Costa, Wendy Li, Jongbong Lee, 2022-08-04 This book presents the results of research that focused on international students receiving writing instruction on a US university campus It explores how the students developed their foreign student identities and their own ways of grappling with the unique issues they encountered as they worked to improve their academic literacy skills The book extends the theoretical horizons of language socialization research by integrating insights from other disciplinary frameworks such as a translingual approach multilingual literacies and writing center theory to explore international students university experiences By adopting these varied lenses the book provides readers with a more holistic integrative and ecological understanding of students language and literacy development The authors also investigate how a translingual pedagogy informs language instructors and literacy instructors in facilitating multilingual students academic literacy development across a variety of codes registers genres modes and media

Disciplinary Discourses Ken Hyland, 2000 Applied Linguistics and Language Study General Editor Christopher N Candlin Chair Professor of Applied Linguistics Centre for English Language Education Communication Research Department of English City University of Hong Kong Hong Kong Since it was first established in the 1970 s the Applied Linguistics and Language Study series has become a major force in the study of practical problems in human communication and language education Drawing extensively on empirical research and theoretical work in linguistics sociology psychology and education the series explores key issues in language acquisition and language use Disciplinary Discourses Social Interactions in Academic Writing presents a series of innovative studies focusing on eight disciplines and a variety of key genres to examine the relationships between the cultures of academic communities and their discursal practices It proposes a framework to account for the interactions between writers and their readers in published academic writing draws clear teaching suggestions and offers detailed methodological principles and suggestions to support further research Drawing on discourse analysis corpus linguistics and the voices of professional insiders Ken Hyland explores how academics use language to organise their professional lives carry out intellectual tasks and reach agreement on what will count as knowledge Through its focus on the features of key genres this book shows what close textual analyses can reveal about the social practices and institutional ideologies of different academic communities and at the same time provides a clear basis for further research The theoretical and descriptive accounts have strong practical implications for the understanding of academic writing and disciplinary communities It will therefore be of great interest to teachers and students of academic writing English for Specific Purposes and discourse analysis more generally Ken Hyland is an Associate Professor in the Department of English City University of Hong Kong

Constructing Interpersonality Rosa Lorés Sanz, Pilar Mur-Dueñas, Enrique Lafuente-Millán, 2010 The view that academic discourse is by definition impersonal has long been superseded It seems unquestionable now that the interpersonal component of texts that is the ways in which the writers project themselves and their audience in the discourse is an essential factor determining the success of scholarly communication and has become a fundamental issue in the field of English for Academic Purposes EAP Interpersonality is the key issue around which the articles in this edited book focus on The eighteen contributions included in this volume provide a wide exploratory view of the many academic genres in which interpersonality is manifested and the various analytical approaches from which the textual manifestation of that interpersonality can be studied The varied origin of the contributors is also representative of the global interest that the issue of interpersonality arouses in the field of academic discourse analysis at an international level The present volume constitutes a highly valuable tool for applied linguists and discourse analysts with an interest in EAP as well as for students instructors and language teachers interested in academic discourse The book may also be of interest to other agents intervening in the research publication process such as translators proofreaders reviewers and editors
