Woman Who Mapped Labrador:

The Woman Who Mapped Labrador Mina Benson Hubbard, Anne Hart, Bryan Greene, 2012-05-16 In 1905 Mina Benson Hubbard became the first white woman to cross Labrador completing the expedition that had led to her husband's death. The Woman Who Mapped Labrador makes available for the first time the unguarded and personal diary that was the basis for her famous book A Woman's Way Through Unknown Labrador. Three specialists have combined their expertise to enhance the richness of this original source. Roberta Buchanan's annotation of Hubbard's expedition diary makes it accessible to contemporary readers. Anne Hart's biography illuminates an Edwardian woman's transformation from teacher, nurse, and devoted wife to courageous explorer and social activist. Bryan Greene's discussion of Hubbard's navigational, cartographic, and topographical techniques shows her to have been a serious explorer. His nineteen newly drawn maps make it possible to follow her journey in detail. In her diary Hubbard's full enthusiasm for the Labrador wilderness shines through her descriptions of the great caribou migration, the Montagnais, Naskapi, Innu, and life at a Hudson's Bay post. She also reveals in frank detail the difficulties of asserting her authority as a female expedition leader and her satisfaction at beating out her male rival Dillon Wallace.

At Home in the Cold Katherine Crooks, 2025-11-18 In the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries, the idea of home came into focus as a place of warmth and comfort associated with interior spaces and feminine touches. In the same period, writing about the Arctic as a frigid and inhospitable landscape proliferated. American readers were fascinated by stories of Arctic exploration and supposedly heroic feats of survival by rugged white men. Moving between these opposing pictures were a handful of white and northern Indigenous women who travelled between the eastern Arctic and America between 1890 and 1940 in connection with exploratory expeditions. Their journeys and recollections challenged prevailing ideas about home, the North, and the rightful place of women. At Home in the Cold brings to light the histories of five women involved in Arctic exploration. The stories of three white women explorers, Mina Hubbard, Josephine Peary, and her daughter Marie Peary, reveal the importance of middle-class domestic ideology to understanding the history of Arctic exploration as they sought to transform the Arctic into a more familiar environment. Their journeys are considered alongside the stories of two northern women, Eqariusaq from Greenland and Elizabeth Ford, born in Labrador, who travelled to the United States in connection with Arctic expeditions. They too made comparisons of eastern Arctic and American environments that were rooted in their experiences of the Arctic as a natural home. Representations of the Arctic as a difficult place to live continue to dominate outsider perceptions of the North, with significant implications for northern residents today. At Home in the Cold considers the colonial implications of home and domestic ideology in the Arctic context.

Maps of Difference Wendy Roy, 2005-05-12 Roy considers the connections Jameson makes between feminism and anti-racism in Winter Studies and Summer Rambles in Canada. 1838 Hubbard's insights in A Woman's Way Through Unknown Labrador 1908 into her relationship with First Nations men, who had both more and less power than she, and Laurence's awareness of colonial and patriarchal oppression in her African memoir The Prophet's Camel Bell 1963 Roy also examines archival and First Nations accounts of these women's travels and the sketches, photos, and maps that accompany their writing to examine contradictions in and question the implied objectivity of travel narratives. She concludes by looking at the myth of getting there first and the ways in which new technologies of representation, including cameras, allow travellers and writers to claim new travel firsts.

Wildly different Sarah Lonsdale, 2025-03-04 The globe trotting tales of five women who fought for the right to enjoy the wild places of the earth. For millennia the wild was a place heroic men went on epic quests. Women were prevented from joining them either through physical control or powerful myths about what would happen if they ventured beyond the city wall or village boundary. So how did women claim their place in the remote and lovely parts of our planet? In Wildly different historian Sarah Lonsdale traces the lives of five women who fought for the right to work in and help to save the earth's wild places. We'll meet Mina Hubbard who outraged the exploration community when she stepped into a canoe in northern Labrador; Evelyn Cheesman who became the first female keeper of insects at London Zoo; Dorothy Pilley who shocked polite society by donning men's climbing breeches; Ethel Haythornthwaite who helped make the Peak District Britain's first National Park; and Wangari Maathai who started a movement to plant millions of trees across sub-Saharan Africa. Drawing on interviews with Sir David Attenborough, Wangari Maathai's daughter, and others, Lonsdale recounts the women's adventures across five continents. Evocative and inspiring, this book shows how women can be wildly different.
