How small print is a threat to health

By John H. Garvey

More than 100 million Americans are expected to be covered by health insurance in 1994. The number of people with health insurance is expected to rise to 150 million by 2000, according to a study by the Congressional Budget Office. The study also predicts that the number of people without health insurance will rise from 100 million in 1994 to 150 million in 2000. The study is based on the assumption that the current rate of health insurance coverage will remain constant. However, the study also predicts that the number of people with health insurance will rise to 150 million by 2000, according to a study by the Congressional Budget Office.
