

Dreaming of My Deceased Wife on the Night of the 20th Day of the First Month

Ten boundless years now separate the living and the dead,
I have not often thought of her, but neither can I forget.
Her lonely grave is a thousand li distant, I can't say where my wife lies cold.
We could not recognise each other even if we met again,
My face is all but covered with dust, my temples glazed with frost.
In deepest night, a sudden dream returns me to my homeland,
She sits before a little window, and sorts her dress and make-up.
We look at each other without a word, a thousand lines of tears.
Must it be that every year I'll think of that heart-breaking place,
Where the moon shines brightly in the night, and bare pines guard the tomb.

Song Dynasty Poems:

Song Dynasty Poems John Knoepfle, Shouyi Wang, 1985-01-01 诗词合集, 2005 Students of Chinese poetry will enjoy this translation of famous Song Dynasty poems written in Chinese English and Pinyin Facing pages include full color artwork from the Song Dynasty accompanied with historical explanations Anthology of Song Dynasty Ci-poetry Hongquan Huang, 2001 355 An Introduction to Chinese Poetry Michael Fuller, 2020-10-26 This innovative textbook for learning classical Chinese poetry moves beyond the traditional anthology of poems translated into English and instead brings readers including those with no knowledge of Chinese as close as possible to the texture of the poems in their original language The first two chapters introduce the features of classical Chinese that are important for poetry and then survey the formal and rhetorical conventions of classical poetry The core chapters present the major poets and poems of the Chinese poetic tradition from earliest times to the lyrics of the Song Dynasty 960 1279 Each chapter begins with an overview of the historical context for the poetry of a particular period and provides a brief biography for each poet Each of the poems appears in the original Chinese with a word by word translation followed by Michael A Fuller's unadorned translation and a more polished version by modern translators A question based study guide highlights the important issues in reading and understanding each particular text Designed for classroom use and for self study the textbook's goal is to help the reader appreciate both the distinctive voices of the major writers in the Chinese poetic tradition and the grand contours of the development of that tradition The Late Poems of Wang An-Shih Wang An-Shih, 2015-03-19 A selection of poems by the ancient Chinese poet and statesman Wang An Shih translated by David Hinton Wang An shih 1021 1086 C E was a remarkable figure not only one of the great Sung Dynasty poets but also the most influential and controversial statesman of his time Although Wang had little interest in the grandeur of high office and political power he took the responsibility of serving the people seriously He rose to become prime minister and in this position he instituted a controversial system of radically egalitarian social reforms to improve the lives of China's peasants Once those reforms were securely in place Wang retired to a reclusive life of artistic and spiritual self cultivation It was after his retirement practicing Chan Zen Buddhism and wandering the mountains around his home that Wang An shih wrote the poems that made his reputation Short and plainspoken these late poems contain profound multitudes the passing of time rivers and mountains silence and Buddhist emptiness They won him wide acclaim in China and beyond across the centuries And in Hinton's breathtaking translations Wang feels like a major contemporary poet with deep ecological insight and a questioning spirit Drifting among Rivers and Lakes Michael Fuller, 2020-10-26 What drives literary change Does literature merely follow shifts in a culture or does it play a distinctive role in shaping emergent trends Michael Fuller explores these questions while examining the changes in Chinese shi poetry from the late Northern Song dynasty 960 1127 to the end of the Southern Song 1127 1279 a period of profound social and cultural transformation Shi poetry written in response to events was the dominant literary genre in Song dynasty China serving as a central form through which literati explored meaning in their encounters with the world. By the late Northern Song however old models for meaning were proving inadequate and Daoxue Neo Confucianism provided an increasingly attractive new ground for understanding the self and the world. Drifting among Rivers and Lakes traces the intertwining of the practice of poetry writings on poetics and the debates about Daoxue that led to the cultural synthesis of the final years of the Southern Song and set the pattern for Chinese society for the next six centuries. Examining the writings of major poets and Confucian thinkers of the period Fuller discovers the slow evolution of a complementarity between poetry and Daoxue in which neither discourse was self sufficient. Ten Ci Poems of the Song Dynasty and Paintings David Ping Chung Tsow, 2014 Echoes of the Song Dynasty Lin Shao, 2025-11 The Grace of Nature is the first bilingual collection of its kind uniting Song style poetry ink wash painting and interpretive scholarship in both Chinese and English.
