examines the intersection of trauma and the Gothic in six contemporary British novels Martin Amis s London Fields Margaret Drabble's The Gates of Ivory, Ian McEwan's Atonement, Pat Barker's Regeneration and Double Vision and Kazuo Ishiguro's Never Let Me Go. In these works the Gothic functions both as an expression of societal violence at the turn of the twenty-first century and as a response to the related crisis of representation brought about by the contemporary individual's highly mediated and spectatorial relationship to this violence. By locating these six novels within the Gothic tradition, this work argues that each text to borrow a term from Jacques Derrida participates in the Gothic in ways that both uphold the paradigm of unspeakability that has come to dominate much trauma fiction as well as push its boundaries to complicate how we think of the ethical relationship between witnessing and writing trauma.

Wounds and Words Christa Schönfelder, 2014-04-15 Trauma has become a hotly contested topic in literary studies. But interest in trauma is not new; its roots extend to the Romantic period when novelists and the first psychiatrists influenced each other's investigations of the wounded mind. This book looks back to these early attempts to understand trauma, reading a selection of Romantic novels in dialogue with Romantic and contemporary psychiatry. It then carries that dialogue forward to postmodern fiction, examining further how empirical approaches can deepen our theorizations of trauma. Within an interdisciplinary framework, this study reveals fresh insights into the poetics, politics, and ethics of trauma fiction.

Reading Trauma Narratives Laurie Vickroy, 2015-10-30 As part of the contemporary reassessment of trauma that goes beyond Freudian psychoanalysis, Laurie Vickroy theorizes trauma in the context of psychological, literary, and cultural criticism. Focusing on novels by Margaret Atwood, William Faulkner, Toni Morrison, Jeanette Winterson, and Chuck Palahniuk, she shows how these writers try to enlarge our understanding of the relationship between individual traumas and the social forces of injustice, oppression, and objectification. Further, she argues their work provides striking examples of how the devastating effects of trauma, whether sexual, socioeconomic, or racial, on individual personality can be depicted in narrative. Vickroy offers a unique blend of interpretive frameworks. She draws on theories of trauma and narrative to analyze the ways in which her selected texts engage readers both cognitively and ethically, immersing them in and yet providing perspective on the flawed thinking and behavior of the traumatized and revealing how the psychology of fear can be a driving force for individuals as well as for society. Through this engagement, these writers enable readers to understand their own roles in systems of power and how they internalize the ideologies of those systems.

The "Mystery of History", its Functionalisation and Disintegration in Graham Swift's "Waterland" Thorben Höppner, 2023-05-02 Seminar paper from the year 2021 in the subject English Language and Literature Studies. Literature grade 1.0 language English abstract. This paper investigates how the ambivalent, perhaps even ambiguous definition of historia relates to the representation of history in the novel and how this representation again relates to its functionalisation by Tom Crick. To answer this question, this paper will primarily work with Linda Hutcheon's notion of historiographic metafiction while also pointing out similarities to the reading of

Waterland as a trauma narrative In taking a closer look at the protagonist narrator himself this paper argues that the protection from chaos and disorder which Landow addresses is only achieved through a form of historical escapism Superficially speaking Graham Swift's Waterland is a novel about a history teacher who having lost his job forsakes the formal teaching of history and embarks on an extracurricular journey into his own past However upon closer examination Waterland is more than that a novel about history itself It explores the whole mystery of history as Swift himself puts it in the introduction to the novel Waterland xv Thus it is only logical that the novel prefaces its narrative with an insightful epigraph a dictionary definition of the Latin word historia from which the English word history originates As can be seen above however said definition is ambivalent it is inherently polysemantic as Judith Ryan notes James Acheson has likewise pointed out that the fact that historia can mean either history or fiction is significant for the historian and the writer of fiction must deal with similar problems in writing about the past The natural tendency of language towards proliferation of its meaning aside the epigraph leaves us with a very ambivalent concept of history which the narrative of Waterland in its dealing with history then builds on Since such a prominent theme in Waterland the novel's representation of history has been thoroughly examined in secondary literature particularly against the theoretical background of what Linda Hutcheon has identified as historiographic metafiction Falling Men in the Post-9/11 Novel Nathalie Gerlach,2015-02-23 Master's Thesis from the year 2014 in the subject American Studies Literature grade 1 5 Humboldt University of Berlin Amerikanistik language English abstract Since September 11 2011 reality has not only outstripped fiction it's destroying it It's impossible to write about this subject and yet impossible to write about anything else Nothing else touches us Beigbender 8 On an early and sunny Tuesday morning in September 2001 the unimaginable happened 2973 people were killed in an attack on the World Trade Center in New York City Within 15 minutes two airplanes hit the Twin Towers and heralded a new age the age of terror The trauma begins at 8 46 AM local time with the crashing of the first plane into The North Tower The tower will collapse 102 minutes later These 102 minutes show images of crashing planes burning and collapsing towers and people jumping from windows These images spread around the world and were repeated endlessly framing them in the discourses of heroism patriotism innocence and trauma D wes 2 The images of 9 11 burned themselves into the memories of contemporary witnesses On this Tuesday the World Trade Center literally becomes the center of the world What is happening inside the burning towers remains invisible Everyone who is located above the crashed planes is left with the choice to burn or to jump About 200 people throw themselves out of the windows Migration and Fiction Maria Löschnigg,Martin Löschnigg,2009 Collective Trauma, the Body, and Literary Forms of Witnessing Kimberly Adelle Rostan,2007 African Women Writing Trauma Emilie Ndione Diouf,2010 Holocaust Studies ,2005
