how cities found new urban and architectural forms through both suburbanization and urban renewal Through nuanced discussions of Chicago Kansas City Detroit Pittsburgh Denver Washington D C and New York Stevens explains how real estate developers though often maligned have shaped public policy through professional organizations promoted investment security through design and brought suburban models to downtowns In this timely book she considers how developers partnered with prominent architects including Ludwig Mies van der Rohe and I M Pei to sell their modern urban visions to the public By viewing real estate developers as a critical link between capital and construction in prewar suburban development and postwar urban renewal Stevens offers an original and enlightening look at the complex connections among suburbs and downtowns policy finance and architectural history
