Something Is Growing:

The Crash Course Chris Martenson, 2011-03-29 The next twenty years will be completely unlike the last twenty years. The world is in economic crisis and there are no easy fixes to our predicament. Unsustainable trends in the economy, energy, and the environment have finally caught up with us and are converging on a very narrow window of time. The Twenty Teens: The Crash Course presents our predicament and illuminates the path ahead so you can face the coming disruptions and thrive without fearing the future or retreating into denial. In this book you will find solid facts and grounded reasoning presented in a calm, positive, non-partisan manner. Our money system places impossible demands upon a finite world. Exponentially rising levels of debt based on assumptions of future economic growth to fund repayment will shudder to a halt and then reverse. Unfortunately, our financial system does not operate in reverse. The consequences of massive deleveraging will be severe. Oil is essential for economic growth. The reality of dwindling oil supplies is now internationally recognized, yet virtually no developed nations have a Plan B. The economic risks to individuals, companies, and countries are varied and enormous. Best case, living standards will drop steadily worldwide. Worst case, systemic financial crises will toss the world into jarring chaos. This book is written for those who are motivated to learn about the root causes of our predicaments, protect themselves and their families, mitigate risks as much as possible, and control what effects they can. With challenge comes opportunity, and The Crash Course offers a positive vision for how to reshape our lives to be more balanced, resilient, and sustainable.

The New Reproductive Order Sarah Franklin, Marcia C. Inhorn, 2025-04-22 The transformative impact of new reproductive technologies over the past half century. Both fertility and infertility are commonly depicted as individual, biological, and choice-dependent conditions that can be mediated by technology. In contrast, The New Reproductive Order documents the complex material, historical, and political forces that both enable and limit human reproductivity while also arguing that both fertility and infertility have become condensed symbols of wider changes to family forms, national political agendas, global economies, and local environments. Combining anthropological, sociological, and intersectional feminist research from across the globe, this landmark volume reveals how changing perceptions of fertility and infertility are altering how people imagine, pursue, and experience reproductivity both individually and collectively. Using a comparative global methodology based on detailed case studies, The New Reproductive Order persuasively argues that changing perceptions of fertility and infertility are giving rise to a distinctive reproductive politics based on new models of reproductive cause and effect. This groundbreaking and sophisticated volume opens new horizons of scholarship on the relationship between fertility, infertility, reproductive technologies, and social change, as well as new thinking on policy, practice, and activism in the twenty-first century's new reproductive order.

Growing Up Canadian Peter Beyer, Rubina Ramji, 2013-08-07 A significant number of Canadian-raised children from post-1970s immigrant families have reached adulthood over the past decade. As a result, the demographics of religious affiliation are changing across Canada. Growing Up Canadian is the first comparative study of religion among young adults of Muslim Hindu and Buddhist immigrant families Contributors consider how relating to religion varies significantly depending on which faith is in question how men and women have different views on the role of religion in their lives and how the possibilities of being religiously different are greater in larger urban centres than in surrounding rural communities Interviews with over two hundred individuals aged 18 to 26 reveal that few are drawn to militant politicized religious extremes how almost all second generation young adults take personal responsibility for their religion and want to understand the reasons for their beliefs and practices The first major study of religion among this generation in Canada Growing Up Canadian is an important contribution to understanding religious diversity and multiculturalism in the twenty first century Contributors include Peter Beyer Kathryn Carri re Wendy Martin and Lori Beaman University of Ottawa Rubina Ramji Cape Breton University Nancy Nason Clark and Cathy Holtmann University of New Brunswick Shandip Saha Athabasca University John H Simpson University of Toronto and Marie Paule Martel Reny Concordia University
