Experienced Expressions Frances Sanchez, 2010-04-14 In this book Frances Sanchez tells a dominant story in a poetic form of one's ability to go from failure to achievements and destruction to restoration. Each story reflects the personal she is in hopes of being someone else's voice, motivation, or even just their way of finding closure. As you read Experienced Expressions, you must open up your mind as well as your heart for it is said that the one who reads with passion and recognition will appreciate it most. This is a magnificent book of encouraging testimonies from one runner to another striving to win the races in life. It is also a touching presentation of the strength it takes to go through some traumatic journeys, the patience to get through them, the courage to relive it all in order to manifest guidance to those in similar situations. The most important message that Frances wants every reader to know is that you can, you will make it. Sometimes what once seemed impossible was in fact possible the whole time, but it wasn't until we opened our eyes that we would see it. Inclusion Frances anticipates that you will be left with a revolutionary experience that will leave you with an eye-opening expression by the end of this book. May you enjoy.

Relationship Processes and Resilience in Children with Incarcerated Parents Julie Poehlmann, J. M. Eddy, Patricia J. Bauer, 2013-07-10 Children with incarcerated parents are at risk for a variety of problematic outcomes, yet research has rarely examined protective factors or resilience processes that might mitigate such risk in this population. In this volume we present findings from five new studies that focus on child or family level resilience processes in children with parents currently or recently incarcerated in jail or prison. In the first study, empathic responding is examined as a protective factor against aggressive peer relations for 210 elementary school age children of incarcerated parents. The second study further examines socially aggressive behaviors with peers with a focus on teasing and bullying in a sample of 61 children of incarcerated mothers. Emotion regulation is examined as a possible protective factor. The third study contrasts children's placement with maternal grandmothers versus other caregivers in a sample of 138 mothers incarcerated in a medium security state prison. The relation between a history of positive attachments between mothers and grandmothers and the current cocaregiving alliance are of particular interest. The fourth study examines coparenting communication in depth on the basis of observations of 13 families with young children whose mothers were recently released from jail. Finally, in the fifth study, the proximal impacts of a parent management training intervention on individual functioning and family relationships are investigated in a diverse sample of 359 imprisoned mothers and fathers. Taken together, these studies further our understanding of resilience processes in children of incarcerated parents and their families and set the groundwork for further research on child development and family resilience within the context of parental involvement in the criminal justice system
