Summary of A Tale of Three Kings

This 73 page book was written by Gene Edwards in 1980. He has also written 'The Prisoner in the Third Cell' which is centred around John. This book revolves around the lives of King David, King Saul and Absalom, the main character being King David who is referred to as the true king. Other characters are mentioned as well, such as Rehoboam, Zadok, Abishai, Joab and Nathan.

What stood out for me?

The author's writing style is stupendous! Wow! As a fellow author I read this book and was simply blown away as to how he manages to insert humour, e.g. saying that King Saul would throw spears at David for target practice. The separation of paragraphs was disconcerting and had me in awe as it made it way easier to follow the story. His use of apostrophe made me feel like I was a side character in the book, watching from the side-lines as a narrator would explain everything to me and press a button so that we can move between different parts of the book. Not to forget the sarcasm, "Be good or end up like the giant killer".

First of all, I learnt that in order to avoid spears you must never learn anything about spear throwing, you must stay out of the company of spear throwers and you must keep your mouth shut! Haha, I'm just joking. Let me get serious now...

I learnt that deep in our hearts we have a King Saul that is mixed into our souls and infused into our blood. Pretty sad, yeah? Well not really cause God can cut away the 'King Saul' in our hearts just as he did for David. The only catch is that one will become deeply wounded and be humiliated. One must destroy themselves in order to get rid of 'King Saul'.

Likewise, broken hearts heal broken hearts. David suffered alone in the cold, dark caves and he would a lot yet he became the greatest comforter of broken hearts through his songs. Perhaps it is because the broken have gone through a treacherous journey, making it easier for them to relate with others.

The thugs and rebellious people all followed David since they saw something in him. God was living within him and he was thus able to save many people and change them slowly but surely from the inside out.

David wouldn't kill the Lord's anointed; he wouldn't avenge since he felt it was better for him to be killed than to learn Saul's ways. This reminded me of a famous quote from an anime called Berserk by Schierke, "No matter how strong, for a human to fight a monster he has submerged his humanity and transformed himself into a greater monster".

Outward clothing of Spirit's power < Inward clothing of spirit's power since the heart remains unchanged with the outward clothing but the monster is dealt with in the inward clothing. God gives unworthy vessels a greater portion of power so that others will eventually see the true state of the individual's internal darkness.

So, is the leader a David or a Saul? Only the passing of time reveals the leader's traits, thus answering the question.
