Translating Nations Ye Tian, 2024-12-30 This book critically examines the ways in which translation studies can offer a conceptual framework for understanding and researching international affairs drawing on examples from China's Belt and Road Initiative The volume encourages new conceptualisations of our understanding of culture and communication through the lens of translation re-envisioning translation beyond the scope of the global circulation of cultural products Tian explores the case study of the Belt and Road Initiative to show how nation branding and soft power can be understood through a translational lens if we rethink of translation as the means by which cultures communicate and build relationships with each other while retaining their distinct dimensions In focusing on intertwining concepts across translation studies cultural studies and international relations universalism power identity and development the book showcases how it is a useful framework for understanding how translation studies can serve as a platform for multidisciplinary dialogue on a global scale This book will be of interest to scholars in translation studies cultural studies international relations and Asian studies

Prophetic Studies of the International Prophetic Conference, 1886 Nation, Language, and the Ethics of Translation
Sandra Bermann, Michael Wood, 2005-07-05 In recent years scholarship on translation has moved well beyond the technicalities of converting one language into another and beyond conventional translation theory With new technologies blurring distinctions between the original and its reproductions and with globalization redefining national and cultural boundaries translation is now emerging as a reformulated subject of lively interdisciplinary debate Nation Language and the Ethics of Translation enters the heart of this debate It covers an exceptional range of topics from simultaneous translation to legal theory from the language of exile to the language of new nations from the press to the cinema and cultures and languages from contemporary Bengal to ancient Japan from translations of Homer to the work of Don DeLillo All twenty-two essays by leading voices including Gayatri Spivak and the late Edward Said are provocative and persuasive The book's four sections Translation as Medium and across Media The Ethics of Translation Translation and Difference and Beyond the Nation together provide a comprehensive view of current thinking on nationality and translation one that will be widely consulted for years to come The contributors are Jonathan E Abel Emily Apter Sandra Bermann Vilashini Cooppan Stanley Corngold David Damrosch Robert Eaglestone Stathis Gourgouris Pierre Legrand Jacques Lezra Fran oise Lionnet Sylvia Molloy Yopie Prins Edward Said Azade Seyhan Gayatri Chakravorty Spivak Henry Staten Lawrence Venuti Lynn Visson Gauri Viswanathan Samuel Weber and Michael Wood

Insights from Book Translations on the International Diffusion of Knowledge Isabelle Yin Fong Sin, 2011 Increases in the stock of ideas possessed by societies are central to modern economic growth The implications of idea flows are striking Klenow and Rodriguez Clare 2005 estimate world production would be just 6% of its current level if countries did not share ideas Yet although theoretical economists have studied ideas and their diffusion extensively empirical studies are scarce because ideas are inherently difficult to measure Previous empirical studies of idea flows have tended to use proxies such as trade flows foreign direct investment migration and patent citations However with the exception of the latter these measures are not pure idea flows and do not capture the key properties of ideas namely non rivalry and disembodiedness My research proposes a novel measure of idea flows namely book translations and uses it to study the factors that affect the international diffusion of ideas Book translations are an attractive way to quantify idea flows because they are both non rival and disembodied they are a pure measure of idea flows rather than a by product of a process such as trade or migration and their key purpose is to make the ideas contained in the book accessible to speakers of another language In chapter 2 I outline the economics literature on ideas and their diffusion I motivate and discuss book translations as a measure of idea flows and provide a framework for thinking about when translations are likely to occur I describe the translation data in chapter 3 The source of the data is an international bibliography of translations collected by the United Nations Educational Scientific and Cultural Organization From this bibliography I compile a data set of over 2 million translations published in 80 countries since the 1949 including detailed information on each title translated I then document the main patterns of translation flows In chapter 4 I employ a gravity framework to study how distance affects translation flows between countries This sheds light both on the barriers to international idea diffusion and on the underlying causes of the negative relationship between distance and trade Translations differ from trade in that they have zero transportation costs but they are subject to similar search and information costs and costs of forming contracts I estimate a gravity model where bilateral translation flows vary with the sizes of the countries and the distance between them and find the elasticity of translations with respect to distance to be between 0.3 and 0.5 for the 1990s these values are significantly smaller than the equivalent elasticity for trade found in the literature suggesting a significant role for transportation costs in the distance effect on trade In addition I present several pieces of evidence that suggest supply side frictions play a larger role in the distance effect on translations than do consumer preferences For instance the speed with which titles are translated which is likely to largely capture supply frictions as opposed to demand factors decreases significantly with distance Finally in joint work with Ran Abramitzky chapter 5 I study how the collapse of the Communist regime in Eastern Europe at the close of the 1980s affected the international diffusion of ideas We show that while translations between Communist languages decreased by two thirds with the collapse Western to Communist translations increased by a factor of seven and reached Western levels Convergence was full in economically beneficial fields such as sciences and only partial in culturally beneficial fields such as history The effects were larger for more Western oriented countries These findings help us understand how institutions shape the international diffusion of knowledge and demonstrate the importance of preferences in
