Birth of a Nation Gerard Loughran, 2010-02-12 Launched in Nairobi in 1960 three years before the birth of independent Kenya the Nation group of newspapers grew up sharing the struggles of an infant nation suffering the pain of its failures and rejoicing in its successes Marking its 50th anniversary in 2010 the Nation looks back on its performance as the standard bearer for journalistic integrity and how far it fell short or supported the loyalty demanded by its founding slogan The Truth shall make you free The Aga Khan was still a student at Harvard University when he decided that an honest and independent newspaper would be a crucial contribution to East Africa's peaceful transition to democracy The Sunday Nation and Daily Nation were launched in 1960 when independence for Kenya was not far over the horizon They quickly established a reputation for honesty and fair mindedness while shocking the colonial and settler establishment by calling for the release of the man who could become the nation's first prime minister Jomo Kenyatta and early negotiations for Uhuru The history of the Nation papers and that of Kenya are closely intertwined in the heat of its printing presses and philosophical struggles that story is told here from committed beginnings to its position today as East Africa's leading newspaper group

Five Emus to the King of Siam Helen Tiffin, 2007 Western exploitation of other peoples is inseparable from attitudes and practices relating to other species and the extra human environment generally Colonial depredations turn on such terms as human savage civilised natural progressive and on the legitimacies governing apprehension and control of space and landscape Environmental impacts were reinforced in patterns of unequal exchange by the transport of animals plants and peoples throughout the European empires instigating widespread ecosystem change under unequal power regimes a harbinger of today's globalization This book considers these imperial exchanges and charts some contemporary legacies of those inequitable imports and exports transportations and transmutations Sheep farming in Australia transforming the land as it dispossessed the native inhabitants became a symbol of new white nationhood The transportation of plants and animals into and across the Pacific even where benign or nostalgic had widespread environmental effects despite the hopes of the acclimatisation societies involved and by extension of missionary societies planting the seeds of Christianity In the Caribbean plantation slavery pushed back the jungle itself an imported word and erased the indigenous occupants one example of the righteous biblically justified cultivation of the wilderness In Australia artistic depictions of landscape often driven by romantic and gothic aesthetics encoded contradictory settler mindsets and literary representations of colonial Kenya mask the erasure of ecosystems Chapters on the early twentieth century in Canada Kenya and Queensland indicate increased awareness of the value of species preservation conservation and disease control The tension between traditional and Euroscientific attitudes towards conservation is revealed in attitudes towards control of the Ganges while the urge to resource exploitation has produced critical disequilibrium in Papua New Guinea Broader concerns centering on ecotourism and ecocriticism are treated in further essays summarising how the dominant West has alienated nature from human beings through commodification in the service of capitalist progress
