A Feeling of Wrongness Joseph Packer, Ethan Stoneman, 2018-11-01 In A Feeling of Wrongness Joseph Packer and Ethan Stoneman confront the rhetorical challenge inherent in the concept of pessimism by analyzing how it is represented in an eclectic range of texts on the fringes of popular culture from adult animated cartoons to speculative fiction Packer and Stoneman explore how narratives such as True Detective Rick and Morty Final Fantasy VII Lovecraftian weird fiction and the pop ideology of transhumanism are better suited to communicate pessimistic affect to their fans than most carefully argued philosophical treatises and polemics They show how these popular nondiscursive texts successfully circumvent the typical defenses against pessimism identified by Peter Wessel Zapffe as distraction isolation anchoring and sublimation They twist genres upend common tropes and disturb conventional narrative structures in a way that catches their audience off guard resulting in belief without cognition a more rhetorically effective form of pessimism than philosophical pessimism While philosophers and polemicists argue for pessimism in accord with the inherently optimistic structures of expressive thought or rhetoric Packer and Stoneman show how popular texts are able to communicate their pessimism in ways that are paradoxically freed from the restrictive tools of optimism A Feeling of Wrongness thus presents uncharted rhetorical possibilities for narrative making visible the rhetorical efficacy of alternate ways and means of persuasion

Drummond,2008-04-01 True detective stories from A L Drummond former chief of the U S Secret Service 21st-Century TV Dramas Amy M. Damico,Sara E. Quay,2016-02-12 In its exploration of some of the most influential popular or critically acclaimed television dramas since the year 2000 this book documents how modern television dramas reflect our society through their complex narratives about prevailing economic political security and social issues Television dramas have changed since the turn of the 21st century for the good many would say as a result of changes in technology the rise of cable networks and increased creative freedom This book approaches the new golden age of television dramas by examining the programs that define the first 15 years of the new century through their complex narratives high production value star power popularity and enthusiastic fan culture After an introduction that sets the stage for the book s content thematic sections present concise chapters that explore key connections between television dramas and elements of 21st century culture The authors explore Downton Abbey as a distraction from contemporary class struggles patriarchy and the past in Game of Thrones and Mad Men and portrayals of the dark hero protagonist in The Sopranos Dexter and Breaking Bad as a few examples of the book s coverage With its multidisciplinary perspectives on a variety of themes terrorism race class gender family dynamics and sociopolitical and socioeconomic topics this book will be relevant across the social sciences and cultural and media studies courses Appreciating the Art of Television Ted Nannicelli,2016-09-13 Contemporary television has been marked by such exceptional programming that it is now common to hear claims that TV has finally become an art In Appreciating the Art of Television Nannicelli contends that televisual art is not a recent development but has in fact existed for a long time Yet despite the flourishing of two relevant academic subfields the philosophy of film and television aesthetics there is little scholarship on television in general as an art form This book aims to provide scholars active in television aesthetics with a critical overview of the relevant philosophical literature while also giving philosophers of film a particular account of the art of television that will hopefully spur further interest and debate It offers the first sustained theoretical examination of what is involved in appreciating television as an art and how this bears on the practical business of television
