

Victoria Baths

sir John Richard Somers Vine

Victoria Baths:

Victoria Baths Prue Williams, 2004 Victoria Baths hit the headlines in 2003 by winning the BBC's Restoration competition. This magnificent complex was described on opening as the most splendid municipal bathing institution in the country. It houses a wealth of beautiful tiling, stained glass, mosaic flooring and other decorative detail. After a decade of disuse, the work of bringing it back to life is beginning. While campaigning to save the Baths, the Friends of Victoria Baths researched its history. This book is the result, telling of how the Baths were conceived, their construction in 1903, and a variety of uses over 87 years. The richest information source has been the memories of people who swam, bathed, danced and worked here over the years. They shared their memories and stories with Prue Williams and the resulting book adds much to the social and architectural history of a great industrial city.

This is an ideal reference for those looking to understand, study and practice community engagement and outreach. It discusses the different ways individuals including faculty, administrators and management in organizations engage in their communities. It supplies case studies, best practices and theoretical approaches to the study of community engagement. Scholars active in this field can use this book as an integration of the current knowledge concerning community engagement and as an inspiration for future research agendas. Whilst directing how to implement effective community engagement practices, the book also facilitates the application of organizational theory to community engagement. It will appeal to academics who are interested in the theoretical background of community engagement.
