The Primal Revolution:

The Primal Revolution Arthur Janov, 1972 The Primal Revolution Arthur Janov, 1978 An Anatomy of the Primal Revolution Walter Kaufmann, 1974 Europe in 1848 Dieter Dowe, Heinz-Gerhard Haupt, Jonathan Sperber, 2001-01-01 The events of 1848 in Europe demonstrated the renewed relevance of the mid nineteenth century uprisings both by showing once again how a revolutionary initiative could quickly spread through different European countries but also by calling into question the nature of revolution and the criteria for a revolution's success and failure To commemorate the 1848 revolution in a spirit of renewed critical inquiry an international team of prominent historians have come together to produce what must be the most comprehensive work on this topic to date and to offer a synthesis that sums up the current state of scholarly research emphasizing the many new interpretations that have developed over several decades

The Mother and Narrative Politics in Modern China Sally Taylor Lieberman, 1998 A modernist icon an object of forbidden desire a symbol of loss and suffering and an incorrigible survivor the mother takes all of these forms in Chinese literature from the 1920s and 1930s In an innovative analysis Sally Taylor Lieberman explores the meanings the maternal figure acquired at a particular place and time and then engages those meanings in a feminist rereading of the master narratives of modern Chinese intellectual and literary history Drawing on feminist literary criticism and the theories of Julia Kristeva Melanie Klein and Sigmund Freud Lieberman breaks traditional analytical boundaries as she explores the place of the mother in the ideological struggles through which the modern Chinese canon attained its present shape

The Russian Revolutionary Emigres, 1825-1870 Martin A. Miller, 2019-12-01 Originally published in 1986 Martin A Miller author of the definitive biography of the exiled revolutionary Peter Kropotkin traces the history of the first generations of Russians who went to Western Europe to devote their lives to anti tsarist politics Refusing to assimilate abroad and unable to return home the migrants political orientations were influenced by intellectual and social currents in both Russia and Europe Miller undertakes a major reassessment of the migrants contribution to the Russian revolutionary movement Starting with Nikolai Turgenev who in 1825 was declared the first migrant by a special act of the Russian government the exiles formed a unique social and political group Miller takes a biographical approach in tracing the progression from a disparate community of intellectuals unable to act together to promote their own program for change to a more cohesive second migrant generation that provided the foundation for collective action and the development of a revolutionary ideology The creation of the Russian migrant press Miller argues gave identity and momentum to the migrants and helped promote their program of revolution and a new social order The Russian Revolutionary Emigres 1825-1870 concludes with the death in 1870 of the leading migrant figure Alexander Herzen and with an analysis of the impact upon the migrants of the emergence of the populist revolutionary movement within Russia The migrants overcame the loss of their homeland through their version of a future Russia one transformed into a new society where their ideals could be realized When two generations later Lenin returned to Russia after decades in Europe and made
