The Lamplighter Maria Susanna Cummins,1890 The Lamplighter Maria Susanna Cummins,1910 The Lamplighter Charles Dickens,1926 The Lamplighter's Story Charles Dickens,1861 The Lamplighter Maria Susanna Cummins,1988 A novel of female development The Lamplighter is a woman s version of the quest story Its heroine Gerty comes on the scene as a child abandoned in the slums of Boston Rescued by the kindly lamplighter Trueman Flint she learns to meet life with courage and honesty The novel remained continuously in print until the 1920s and was second in mid century popularity only to Uncle Tom s Cabin Back cover The Works of Charles Dickens: The uncommercial traveller, The lamplighter, To be read at dusk, Sunday under three heads, and The lazy tour of two idle apprentices. 1905 Charles Dickens,1905 The lamplighter's story; Hunted down; The detective police; and other nouvelles. Petersons' uniform ed Charles Dickens,1861 The Lamplighter Maria S. Cummins,2015-08-27 It was growing dark in the city Out in the open country it would be light for half an hour or more but in the streets it was already dusk Upon the wooden door step of a low roofed dark and unwholesome looking house sat a little girl earnestly gazing up the street The house door behind her was close to the side walk and the step on which she sat was so low that her little unshod feet rested on the cold bricks It was a chilly evening in November and a light fall of snow had made the narrow streets and dark lanes dirtier and more cheerless than ever The Lamplighter; Or, An Orphan Girl's Struggles and Triumphs Maria Susanna Cummins,1873 The lamplighter [by M.S. Cummins,2013-11 Good God to think upon a child That has no childish days No careless play no frolics wild No words of prayer and praise Landon It was growing dark in the city Out in the open country it would be light for half an hour or more but in the streets it was already dusk Upon the wooden door step of a low roofed dark and unwholesome looking house sat a little girl earnestly gazing up the street The house door behind her was close to the side walk and the step on which she sat was so low that her little unshod feet rested on the cold bricks It was a chilly evening in November and a light fall of snow had made the narrow streets and dark lanes dirtier and more cheerless than ever Many people were passing but no one noticed the little girl for no one in the world cared for her She was clad in the poorest of garments her hair was long thick and uncombed and her complexion was sallow and her whole appearance was unhealthy She had fine dark eyes but so large did they seem in contrast to her thin puny face that they increased its peculiarity without increasing its beauty Had she had a mother which alas she had not those friendly eyes would have found something in her to praise But the poor little thing was told a dozen times a day that she was the worst looking child in the world and the worst behaved No one loved her and she loved no one no one tried to make her happy or cared whether she was so She was but eight years old and alone in the world She loved to

watch for the coming of the old man who lit the street lamp in front of the house where she lived to see his bright torch flicker in the wind and then when he so quickly ran up his ladder lit the lamp and made the place cheerful a gleam of joy was shed on a little desolate heart to which gladness was a stranger and though he had never seemed to see and had never spoken to her she felt as she watched for the old lamplighter as if he were a friend

The Lamplighter one of the more popular books in the country when it was released in the mid 19th century is the engaging story of a undisciplined and unloved girl who has her life transformed by Providence through the love of strangers whose ties to her are greater than anyone initially suspects What especially distinguished The Lamplighter from many fictions of its class was its strong flavor of didacticism though to be sure such a flavor was shared by many of her contemporaries In a memorial sermon her pastor Rev Nathaniel Hall of Dorchester said She received her success with a simple gladness less that she was famous than that she might be useful less than she had gained the public s applause than that she had touched to issues human and philanthropic the public s heart and caused her poor Lamplighter to be the means of illumining other and direr darkness than that of night Herein lies the success of this popular novelist of the middle fifties She little cared for her book as a book but as a conscious factor in the advance of the race she cared very much She was an intense believer in the theory of help that it was each one s duty to accomplish during one s stay on earth She wrote as a moral agent therefore Moreover a wide reading awaited her The Christian Register But Gertrude drew back the colour flushed her cheeks and her eyes glistened as she fixed them upon his face with an expression of astonishment and pride The penetrating look of those dark eyes spoke volumes and Mr Bruce replied to their inquiring gaze in these words I hope you are not displeased at my frankness With your frankness said Gertrude calmly no that is a thing that never displeases me But what I have unconsciously done to inspire you with so much confidence that while you defend yourself for defying the wishes of your friends you hardly give me a voice in the matter

Excerpt from The Lamplighter Haunted Hearts She became a frequent contributor to The Atlantic Monthly and other magazines But her sudden popularity left her quite unspoiled A singular modesty a childlike simplicity a deep and beautiful religious faith were the qualities that endeared her to her friends and that are still evidenced by what was written of her at her death which occurred in Dorchester October 1 1866 As her pastor Rev Nathaniel Hall declared in his memorial discourse She received her success with a simple gladness less that she was famous than that she might be useful less than she had gained the public s applause than that she had touched to issues human and philanthropic the public s heart and caused her poor lamplighter to be the means of illumining other and direr darkness than that of night About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of
