

A fascinating and informative guide to shells of the world

Over 1000 species illustrated in full color
153 pages of full-color illustrations

This easy-to-use identification guide covers a wide range of shells from all over the world, from the commonest to the beautiful and coveted. The introductory section gives general information about molluscs and their classification, and includes hints for collecting shells. In the identification section, about 1200 species are described and over 1000 are illustrated in full color. The description of a species fills on the same two-page spread as its illustration, and gives the size, distribution, color and characteristic features of the shell.

A. P. H. Oliver has collected shells for many years in various parts of the world and has a very fine private collection from which many of the illustrated specimens were taken.

The artist, James Nicholls, has produced color paintings of the very highest standard, which are not only beautiful but accurate to the smallest detail.
