The Future of Liberation Theology Ivan Petrella, 2017-03-02 The Future of Liberation Theology envisions a radical new direction for Latin American liberation theology One of a new generation of Latin American theologians Ivan Petrella shows that despite the current dominance of end of history ideology liberation theologians need not abandon their belief that the theological rereading of Christianity must be linked to the development of historical projects models of political and economic organization that would replace an unjust status quo In the absence of historical projects liberation theology currently finds itself unable to move beyond merely talking about liberation toward actually enacting it in society Providing a bold new interpretation of the current state and potential future of liberation theology Ivan Petrella brings together original research on the movement with developments in political theory critical legal theory and political economy to reconstruct liberation theology s understanding of theology democracy and capitalism The result is the recovery of historical projects thus allowing liberation theologians to once again place the reality of liberation and not just the promise at the forefront of their task

Science and Technology in a Developing World T. Shinn, J. Spaapen, V.V. Krishna, 2013-04-17 block possible Soviet expansion by mobilizing European democracies the policy soon extended to some developing countries in Asia and Latin America In response the USSR gradually initiated development programs for newly independent nations in Asia and Africa In this context super power rivalry operated in the South to i expand spheres of influence and control ii guard Southern nations from the influence and incursions launched by the opposed camp iii stimulate indigenous development With few exceptions Southern nations provided little input to the definition and execution of North South dynamics during this period In the case of Africa and to some extent Asia the acquisition of independence was so recent and often sudden that there was little time to reflect on the kind of policies and measures needed to build balanced relations with the former mother country In Latin America the Monroe Doctrine had long insured that the region was a virtual captive of the US Aid for development was contingent on conformity to US political and economic interests The cognitive component of South North dealings strongly reflected the two above mentioned dispositions The relative lack of political experience in the South and the dearth of an organized and sizable intellectual academic community meant that there were few cognitive and human resources for undertaking careful study and analysis of the conditions and needs of development from a Southern perspective influential exceptions existed though such as Raul Prebisch in Latin America or Ghandi in India

The Churches and the Development Debate
Ignatius Swart,2006-05-01 This book newly addresses the question about the Christian churches participation in development The innovative element of this reflection is the way in which the author finds meaning and significance particularly in the concept of a fourth generation approach to strategic development engagement The book s essential argument is that a fourth generation strategy an approach that makes the contemporary social or people s movements the primary subjects of its development action and theory holds the greatest prospect for authentic participation by the Christian churches in development
