

The image shows the front cover of an antique book. The cover is bound in dark, marbled paper with a complex, swirling pattern of light and dark tones. At the top center, there is a circular brass fastener or clasp. In the lower half of the cover, a brass tool, possibly a tinsmith's gauge or a similar measuring instrument, is laid out diagonally. The tool has a long, thin handle and a more complex, multi-angled head. The overall appearance is that of a well-used, historical technical manual.

Vosburgh,1994-09-01 The aim in preparing this little manual has been to make it a guide for the apprentice journeyman and master sheet metal worker To this end the author collected everything of value on the subject and then boiled it down to a well arranged series of simple problems on the different phases of pattern drafting which the mechanic has to puzzle over daily The section on Mensuration will be found both accurate and complete and the rules and examples are reduced to the plainest language so that any one may understand them Realizing the value of reliable data he included all the tables of weights of materials measures of area capacity etc to which the sheet metal worker has occasion to refer together with many excellent recipes formulas and rules which will be found of great service The present edition has been carefully edited and revised by William Neubecker expert pattern cutter and instructor at the New York Trade School While the greater portion of the work remains intact quite a number of important changes have been made to insure greater accuracy and many simpler methods have been included New Tinsmith's Helper and Pattern Book Williams Hall V.,1901

which come up daily This New Helper is an outgrowth of that practical guide At first it was intended to merely revise the old book but it soon became apparent that an entirely new treatment of the subject was necessary in order to cover the ground This book is new with the exception of the chapter on Mensuration which has been re arranged and amplified and possibly some fifty pages of problems and tables which are classified according to the phase of the work they cover The present work has 360 pages 248 figures and 92 tables as against the 120 pages 53 figures and 24 tables contained in the former work The additional matter covers simple geometry and every phase of modern pattern cutting from the making of every type of seam lap and joint to conical problems and tinware elbows piping ducts gutters leaders cornice and skylight work and furnace fittings About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
