The Waterline Joseph Olshan, 1989 When seven year old Billy witnesses the drowning of another little boy he is left to deal with the aftermath of the terrible accident as well as the breakup of his family An aunt who had once lost everything is his sustenance It is she who helps Billy forgive himself

Waterlines Alison Pelegrin, 2016-08-22 In Waterlines Louisiana native Alison Pelegrin gives us poems that describe the terrible power of nature even as they underscore the state's beauty The poet moves from the familiar gaudy delights of life in New Orleans to immerse the reader in the vastly different experience of living north of Lake Pontchartrain In this fractured world the Bogue Falaya River becomes a highway paved with benedictions psalms and praise for ordinary things as Pelegrin searches the unfamiliar for an incarnation of home Water the threat of hurricanes and floods as well as the tangled geographies and histories of the rivers and lakes themselves sustains the poet as she settles into the casual beauty of the daily route finding spiritual depth and delight in both human and natural wonders It's said that figures as different as Jefferson and Goethe were comfortable in the world because they were at home at Monticello and Weimar respectively and the same is true of Alison Pelegrin Waterlines starts locally and then radiates outward not geographically so much as emotionally and spiritually There are poems about faith poems of wry and even scary self examination poems that combine these themes and more Pelegrin stays close to her roots yet journeys out and back ranging widely and then coming home to tap strength and sustenance In the end Waterlines is a big big book David Kirby author of Get Up Please

Unseasonable Sarah Dimick,2024-10-08 As climate change alters seasons around the globe literature registers and responds to shifting environmental time A writer and a fisher track the distribution of beach trash in Chennai chronicling disruptions in seasonal winds and currents along the Bay of Bengal An essayist in the northeastern United States observes that maple sap flows earlier now prompting him to reflect on gender and seasons of transition Poets affiliated with small island nations arrive in Paris for the United Nations climate summit revamping the occasional poem to attest to intensifying storm seasons across the Pacific In Unseasonable Sarah Dimick links these accounts of shifting seasons across the globe tracing how knowledge of climate change is constructed conveyed and amplified via literature She documents how the unseasonable reverberates through environmentally privileged and environmentally precarious communities In chapters ranging from Henry David Thoreau s journals to Alexis Wright s depiction of Australia's catastrophic bushfires from classical Tamil poetry to repeat photography Dimick illustrates how seasonal rhythms determine what flourishes and what perishes She contends that climate injustice is an increasingly temporal issue unfolding not only along the axes of who and where but also in relation to when Amid misaligned and broken rhythms attending to the shared but disparate experience of the unseasonable can realign or sharpen solidarities within the climate crisis
