The Garden Of Weapons:

The Garden of Weapons John Gardner,2013-04-25 In our world we live on lies When Big Herbie Kruger used those words to break the KGB defector he didn't realize just how much his own life had been built on a lie In his world though where love is just another conduit for information it could be no other way Now the lies planted when Herbie created his network in East Berlin have borne their bitter fruit The lives of men and women who trusted him are in danger and his masters in British Intelligence won't let him go back to Berlin to help them Herbie Kruger has no choice then He must tell what may be his final lie

The Garden of Weapons John Gardner,2005 Kruger mounts an operation to discover if there is a double agent among his operators working in Berlin At great personal danger he goes back to where memories of the past merge with perilous events of the present

The Garden of Weapons, Kruger Trilogy 2 John GARDNER,1988 A Cultural History of Firearms in the Age of Empire Karen Jones,2016-03-16 Firearms have been studied by imperial historians mainly as means of human destruction and material production Yet firearms have always been invested with a whole array of additional social and symbolical meanings By placing these meanings at the centre of analysis the essays presented in this volume extend the study of the gun beyond the confines of military history and the examination of its impact on specific colonial encounters By bringing cultural perspectives to bear on this most pervasive of technological artefacts the contributors explore the densely interwoven relationships between firearms and broad processes of social change In so doing they contribute to a fuller understanding of some of the most significant consequences of British and American imperial expansions Not the least original feature of the book is its global frame of reference Bringing together historians of different periods and regions A Cultural History of Firearms in the Age of Empire overcomes traditional compartmentalisations of historical knowledge and encourages the drawing of novel and illuminating comparisons across time and space

Dwyer,2025-10-01 In The Pigs that Ate the Garden Peter D Dwyer examines the subsistence ecology of 109 Etolo people who live on the wet forested mountain slopes of Papua New Guinea Dwyer describes the community s method of deliberately placing pigs in gardens so that the pigs depredate the vegetation there He shows how this practice is actually the community s method of sending a message to itself that serves to resynchronize a switch from sweet potato gardening to sago starch processing The interrelationships of the different food producing activities of the Etolo gardening hunting tree crop cultivation etc are shown to have seasonal rhythms and these rhythms maximize the Etolo s use of food resources at appropriate times and areas Dwyer argues that the shape of Etolo ecology is ultimately driven by socio cultural rather than environmental forces and is set within a theoretical frame concerning processes of communication and change in open systems The Saturday Review of Politics, Literature, Science and Art ,1889 The Country Gentleman ,1918 The Cornhill Magazine William Makepeace Thackeray,1921 The Borda Garden in Cuernavaca Sylvester Baxter,1908 Garden Life ,1922
