Platonism and the Objects of Science Scott Berman,2020-02-20 What are the objects of science Are they just the things in our scientific experiments that are located in space and time Or does science also require that there be additional things that are not located in space and time Using clear examples these are just some of the questions that Scott Berman explores as he shows why alternative theories such as Nominalism Contemporary Aristotelianism Constructivism and Classical Aristotelianism fall short He demonstrates why the objects of scientific knowledge need to be not located in space or time if they are to do the explanatory work scientists need them to do The result is a contemporary version of Platonism that provides us with the best way to explain what the objects of scientific understanding are and how those non spatiotemporal things relate to the spatiotemporal things of scientific experiments as well as everything around us including even ourselves

The Shape of Thought H. Clark Barrett,2014-12-15 The Shape of Thought How Mental Adaptations Evolve presents a road map for an evolutionary psychology of the twenty first century It brings together theory from biology and cognitive science to show how the brain can be composed of specialized adaptations and yet also an organ of plasticity Although mental adaptations have typically been seen as monolithic hard wired components frozen in the evolutionary past The Shape of Thought presents a new view of mental adaptations as diverse and variable with distinct functions and evolutionary histories that shape how they develop what information they use and what they do with that information The book describes how advances in evolutionary developmental biology can be applied to the brain by focusing on the design of the developmental systems that build it Crucially developmental systems can be plastic designed by the process of natural selection to build adaptive phenotypes using the rich information available in our social and physical environments This approach bridges the long standing divide between nativist approaches to development based on innateness and empiricist approaches based on learning It shows how a view of humans as a flexible culturally dependent species is compatible with a complexly specialized brain and how the nature of our flexibility can be better understood by confronting the evolved design of the organ on which that flexibility depends
