The Silent Cinema Reader Lee Grieveson, Peter Krämer, 2004 The Silent Cinema Reader brings together key writings on cinema from the beginnings of film in 1894 to the advent of sound in 1927 addressing the development of film production and exhibition technologies methods of distribution film form and film culture during this critical period on film history Thematic sections address film projection and variety shows storytelling and the Nickelodeon cinema and reform feature films and cinema programs classical Hollywood cinema and European national cinemas Each section is introduced by the editors and contains suggestions for further readings and film viewings The Last Silent Picture Show William M. Drew, 2010-08-27 In 1927 The Jazz Singer heralded a revolution in the moviemaking industry with the advent of synchronized sound in full length motion pictures While movie studios adapted their production facilities to accommodate the new technology and movie theatres converted to sound filmmakers continued to produce silents albeit in dwindling numbers And though talkies would overtake the industry and the public's demand soon enough the silent motion picture did not disappear immediately The Last Silent Picture Show Silent Films on American Screens in the 1930s looks at this cultural shift Drawing primarily on contemporary records this book details the fate of an entire art form the silent cinema in the United States during the 1930s and how it managed to survive the onslaught of sound Through the most diverse venues from tent shows to universities political meetings to picture palaces ghetto theaters to art houses the silent film continued to play an important role in American culture in the Depression years culminating in the first efforts to chronicle and preserve cinema history Through the voices of the audiences critics editors and artists Drew relates the impact of various silent films whether new releases reissues or foreign imports on the public and culture of the 30s how they affected both the popular and intellectual environment and how they were promoted for their audiences Providing an in depth examination of the transitional period which led to the birth of modern film studies The Last Silent Picture Show is aimed not only at academics but also the large number of film devotees who will discover new information on a relatively neglected chapter of film history Guide to the Silent Years of American Cinema Christophe P. Jacobs, Donald McCaffrey, 1999-09-30 The latest offering from the Reference Guides to the World's Cinema series this critical survey of key films actors directors and screenwriters during the silent era of the American cinema offers a broad ranging portrait of the motion picture production of silent film Detailed but concise alphabetical entries include over 100 film titles and 150 personnel An introductory chapter explores the early growth of the new silent medium while the final chapter of this encyclopedic study examines the sophistication of the silent cinema These two chapters outline film history from its beginnings until the perfection of synchronized sound and reflect upon the themes and techniques established with the silent cinema that continued into the sound era through modern times The annotated entries alphabetically arranged by film title or personnel include brief bibliographies and filmographies An appendix lists secondary but important movies and their creators Film and popular culture scholars will appreciate the vast amount of information that has been culled from various sources and that builds upon the increased studies and research of the past ten years Silent Cinema and the Politics of Space Jennifer M. Bean, Anupama Kapse, Laura Horak, 2014-04-02 In this cross cultural history of narrative cinema and media from the 1910s to the 1930s leading and emergent scholars explore the transnational crossings and exchanges that occurred in early cinema between the two world wars Drawing on film archives from around the world this volume advances the premise that silent cinema freely crossed national borders and linguistic thresholds in ways that became far less possible after the emergence of sound These essays address important questions about the uneven forces geographic economic political psychological textual and experiential that underscore a non linear approach to film history The messiness of film history as demonstrated here opens a new realm of inquiry into unexpected political social and aesthetic crossings of silent cinema 100 Silent Films Bryony Dixon, 2019-07-25 100 Silent Films provides an authoritative and accessible history of silent cinema through one hundred of its most interesting and significant films As Bryony Dixon contends silent cinema is not a genre it is the first 35 years of film history a complex negotiation between art and commerce and a union of creativity and technology At its most grand on the big screen with a full orchestral accompaniment it is magnificent permitting a depth of emotional engagement rarely found in other fields of cinema Silent film was hugely popular in its day and its success enabled the development of large scale film production in the United States and Europe It was the start of our fascination with the moving image as a disseminator of information and as mass entertainment with its consequent celebrity culture The digital revolution in the last few years and the restoration and reissue of archival treasures have contributed to a huge resurgence of interest in silent cinema Bryony Dixon s illuminating guide introduces a wide range of films of the silent period 1895 1930 including classics such as The Birth of a Nation 1915 The General 1926 Metropolis 1927 Sunrise 1927 and Pandora s Box 1928 alongside more unexpected choices and represents major genres and directors of the period Griffith Keaton Chaplin Murnau Sj str m Dovzhenko and Eisenstein together with an introductory overview and useful filmographic and bibliographic information “The” Silent Cinema Liam O'Leary, 1980

The Movies as a World Force Ryan Jay Friedman,2019-02-04 Throughout the silent feature era American artists and intellectuals routinely described cinema as a force of global communion a universal language promoting mutual understanding and harmonious coexistence amongst disparate groups of people In the early 1920s film industry leaders began to espouse this utopian view in order to claim for motion pictures an essentially uplifting social function The Movies as a World Force examines the body of writing in which this understanding of cinema emerged and explores how it shaped particular silent films and their marketing campaigns The utopian and universalist view of cinema the book shows represents a synthesis of New Age spirituality and the new liberalism It provided a framework for the first official written histories of American cinema and persisted as an advertising trope even after the transition to sound made movies reliant on specific national languages
