

The Singing Swan

Alexis French
(born 1970)

Smoothly

The first system of the musical score consists of two staves. The upper staff is in treble clef with a key signature of one flat (B-flat) and a 3/4 time signature. It features a melodic line with a long slur over the first six measures and a shorter slur over the last three. The lower staff is in bass clef with the same key signature and time signature, providing a harmonic accompaniment with chords and moving lines.

The second system of the musical score continues the piece with two staves. The upper staff maintains the melodic line from the first system, with slurs indicating phrasing. The lower staff continues the accompaniment, with a bass clef appearing in the final measure of the system.

Birds have always been a popular and accessible subject but most books about medieval birds are an overview of their symbolism generally owl for ill omen the pelican as a Eucharistic image and the like The unique selling point of this book is to focus on one bird and explore it in detail from medieval reality to artistic concept This book also traces how and why the medieval perception of the swan shifted from hypocritical to courtly within the medieval period With special attention to The Knight of the Swan the book traces the rise and popularity of the medieval swan through literature history courtly practices and art The book uses thoroughly readable language to appeal to a wide audience and explains some of the reasons why the swan holds such resonance today by covering views of the swan from classic to early modern times Saga of Halfred the Sigskald Felix Dahn,2020-07-31 Reproduction of the original Saga of Halfred the Sigskald by Felix Dahn The Psychoanalytic Review ,1920 Carmina Gadelica, hymns and incantations, collected and tr. by A.
