The Healing Dialogue in Psychotherapy Maurice S. Friedman, 1994 The Healing Dialogue in Psychotherapy Maurice Friedman, 1985 This volume includes references to aspects of dialogue of key psychotherapeutic schools It aims to connect psychotherapy's past with its future The Healing Between William G. Heard, 1993 A comprehensive guide to applying dialogical psychotherapy in clinical practice Heard draws on the philosophical anthropology of Martin Buber who contended that a new reality the between may be generated in our interactions with another and that this reality has a profound effect on both partners of the interaction Reveals the relevance of this dynamic to therapeutic interactions and offers practical insights into applying an understanding of this philosophy to therapeutic practice Martin Buber and the Human Sciences Maurice Friedman, 2012-02-01 The specific focus of Martin Buber and the Human Sciences is dialogue as the foundation of and integrating factor in the human sciences using dialogue in the special sense which Buber has made famous mutuality presentness openness meeting the other in his or her uniqueness and not just as a content for one's own thought categories and knowing as deriving in the first instance from mutual contact rather than knowledge of a subject about an object By the human sciences the authors editors mean material that can be meaningfully approached in a dialogic way hence the humanities education psychology speech communication anthropology history sociology and economics The essays in Martin Buber and the Human Sciences demonstrate that thirty years after Buber's death his influence is still resonating in many countries and in many fields A Healing Relationship Richard G Erskine, 2021-03-09 A Healing Relationship is about a relationally focused psychotherapy how the author works and why The first couple of chapters provide a brief orientation to relationally focused aspects of an integrative psychotherapy The heart of the book are the transaction by transaction examples of what actually occurred in the psychotherapeutic dialogue It is composed of three verbatim transcripts along with annotations about what the author was thinking and feeling when he engaged in psychotherapy with each client Many of the annotated comments as well as the actual therapeutic dialogue will describe some elements of the process of relationally focused psychotherapy and the reasoning behind his therapeutic comments silences and challenge This book is intended to elicit a dialogue between the reader and the psychotherapist author and is written as though a personal letter Psychotherapy is such an interpersonal encounter an intimate meeting of two souls No two psychotherapists will ever do the same therapy even with the same client even if they use the same theory and methods It is important to appreciate how each think about theories the concepts that underlie the methods chosen how each assess the therapeutic setting and express personal temperament Richard G Erskine has taken an important step in communication about the practice of psychotherapy Not only with this excellent book but also with video footage of the three therapy sessions which will be made accessible to purchasers of the book The overarching aim is to stimulate important conversations between colleagues to both agree and disagree to influence each other to grow professionally and to share

The Psychotherapy Relationship Charles J. Gelso, Jeffrey A. Hayes, 1998-08-27 Human beings are social creatures and from the moment we enter the world our personal horizons are defined by our relationships with others Parents siblings teachers friends lovers colleagues even the countless strangers with whom we interact during the course of any given day we exist through them and they through us This book is concerned with one of the most profound yet difficult to define of human relationships the healing relationship of psychotherapy There are many psychotherapeutic schools of thought and while they may vary considerably in theory and methodology virtually all agree that the relationship that develops between therapist and client is important to the success of treatment But how do you define a successful client therapist relationship How exactly does the psychotherapy relationship influence process and outcome What are its various components and which are most important to the healing process In this groundbreaking study Charles Gelso and Jeffrey Hayes provide answers to these and other challenging questions about The Psychotherapy Relationship The authors begin by defining the three main components of the psychotherapy relationship the working alliance transference configuration and the real relationship They then consider how each is generally defined by and functions within various psychotherapeutic approaches how each interrelates with the other two components within the context of the therapy relationship and how relationship components and therapeutic techniques interact during treatment Throughout the authors draw upon their extensive clinical experience to offer advice and guidance on how to avoid and overcome major obstacles to a successful psychotherapy relationship The remainder of the book is devoted to a fascinating in depth look at the psychotherapy relationship in action in four major psychotherapy schools psychoanalytic cognitive behavioral humanistic and feminist Ever mindful of important factional differences within schools of thought the authors explore the role of the relationship within each approach in terms of the centrality of the relationship whether the relationship is seen as a means to an end or an end in itself the extent to which the emphasis is on the real relationship versus the transference and the manner in which the therapist uses power in the relationship The most penetrating and far ranging exploration yet of this most crucial aspect of the psychotherapeutic process The Psychotherapy Relationship is must reading for all psychotherapists A far ranging and insightful exploration of one of the most important and controversial aspects of the psychotherapeutic process The Psychotherapy Relationship is an impartial research based exploration of the role of the client therapist relationship in most major approaches to psychotherapy Drs Gelso and Hayes break the relationship down into its component parts including the working alliance transference countertransference and the real relationship and define the function of each as it interrelates with both the other two and with various intervention techniques They explore various theories about the nature and function of the therapy relationship espoused by the psychoanalytic cognitive behavioral humanistic and feminist schools of thought And they develop a broad based practical synthesis of theory research and personal clinical experience that all psychotherapists will find helpful in their efforts to assess and improve the quality of their relationships with their clients
