Missionary John Brownleigh finds Hazel Winship unconscious in the desert and returns her to her family But on the way she overhears a conversation that changes her life forever The Man of the Desert Grace Livingston Hill,2020-04-17 It was morning high and clear as Arizona counts weather and around the little railroad station were gathered a crowd of curious onlookers seven Indians three women from nearby shacks drawn thither by the sight of the great private car that the night express had left on a side track the usual number of loungers a swarm of children besides the station agent who had come out to watch proceedings All the morning the private car had been an object of deep interest to those who lived within sight and that was everybody on the plateau and many and various had been the errands and excuses to go to the station that perchance the occupants of that car might be seen or a glimpse of the interior of the moving palace but the silken curtains had remained drawn until after nine o clock Within the last half hour however a change had taken place in the silent
